

OUR 56th PUBLIC AUCTION SALE

June 27, 28, 1962

GROSSED $57,118.50!

- THE TOTAL RETURNS WERE $331.00, OR .0058% OF THE SALE GROSS.
- Six of the twelve lots returned were errors on the part of the bidders, admitted or otherwise, who either did not read our descriptions carefully, or who apparently did not understand what they did read.
- Five of the remaining six returns were poorly struck coins, where manufacturing weaknesses were misleading and confusing, so far as condition grading (and describing same) are concerned.
- One coin (called Uncirculated) was obviously graded by us incorrectly. It is closer to AU-55 (on the Sheldon scale).

THE ACTUAL RETURNS WERE:

Lot	Bidder	Price	Reason given for return
99	H.J.R.	$13.00	"Does not agree with description."
168	H.J.R.	11.00	Coin more bent than our description states.
229	K.E.R.	13.00	"I never purchase coins that grade less than fine, or ones that the dates are not legible."
358	F.E.C.	30.00	"I cannot go along on grading."
370	D.E.L.	10.00	"Coin . . . too worn for me."
377	F.E.C.	18.00	"I find that these are Proclamation medals instead of 4 Reales."
378	F.E.C.	18.00
556	J.F.S.	50.00	"I have no 'blackish' coin like this one, in my own collection."
640	J.K.W.	61.00	". . . not what I want for my collection."
678	F.M.S.	16.00	"Do not consider this coin . . . Uncirculated."
790	V.F.R.	41.00	"Reason for return . . . honest error on my part."
792	R.A.	50.00	Thought lot Indian Cents, instead of Two Cent pieces.

- We consider this rate of return .0058%, lowest of any contemporary coin auctioneers!
- Our sale returns for years have averaged below 1% of the gross!
- Bid and deal in confidence, the New Netherlands way!

(Sale records and correspondence available at our office. For examination. We also have, for each Auction, a generous number of complimentary letters, which are also available for examination.)

AMERICAN NUMISMATIC ASSOCIATION

The American Numismatic Association is the largest and most active numismatic body in the world. It invites and welcomes to membership all worthy persons seventeen years of age or over, who have a sincere interest in numismatics, whether they collect coins, paper money, tokens or medals, whether advanced collectors or only those generally interested in the subject without being collectors. The Association was founded in 1891, and has about 28,000 readers from every state in the Union and many foreign countries. It was chartered for fifty years by Act of Congress May 9, 1912; renewed in perpetuity by Act of Congress April 10, 1962 and is a mutual organization for the benefit of its members.

All Association members, except Associate, receive the official publication, The Numismatist, without cost other than their annual dues. Membership applications should be accompanied by $5.00 for the first year's dues and $2.00 admittance fee. Annual dues are $5.00. Nonmember subscription, $6.00. Single copy, fifty cents. For application blanks, subscriptions or general information, write to the General Secretary.

The Numismatist is an illustrated monthly which has been issued continuously since its founding in 1888, consists of 144 pages or more in each number with subscribers in about sixty countries. Advertising inquiries should be sent to the Advertising Manager. All other matters for possible publication in or concerning The Numismatist are to be forwarded to the Editor. Unsolicited manuscripts, which are sent at the owner's risk, and other correspondence calling for a reply must be accompanied by stamped, self-addressed envelopes. Opinions expressed in articles published in The Numismatist are those of the authors and do not necessarily represent the views of the American Numismatic Association or the Editor.

STORY OF OUR NATIONAL MOTTO

By

WILLIAM C. BOSTON, A.N.A. No. 13950

MARK R. WATKINSON was not a hero in the physical sense. He lived during the Civil War period but was not a war hero. Yet what he did had more good effect on posterity than any Civil War hero. He was a spiritual leader, a humble minister of the gospel. Many events which we now recognize as historic have been obscured by time and place and have only been brought to light by a word here, a phrase there, an old document, or in many other ways. By piecing all the data together, the historian gradually brings important happenings of bygone days together and a historical event becomes an established fact.

Today we honor M. R. Watkinson. He wrote a letter of singular eloquence to Washington, D. C. that had far reaching influence on history. And although that letter is still in existence and is now in the National Archives in Washington, nobody remembered the writer enough to tell about him in later years. He signed the letter M. R. Watkinson, Minister of the Gospel, Ridleyville, Pa. Since maps of Pennsylvania show no town by the name of Ridleyville, no search could be made of local records.

The letter sent by Watkinson suggested the use of the word "God" in some form on the United States coins. This led to the adoption of our National Motto.

A bulletin of the Delaware County of Pennsylvania Historical Society dated June, 1954, carried a statement that the Curator (Mrs. Elsie M. Jones) had received a letter from Arizona asking for the location of Ridleyville. Mrs. Jones found a booklet issued on the hundredth anniversary of the First Baptist Church of Ridley Park in 1930 which referred to Rev. Mark R. Watkinson.

The Secretary of that Church, Mrs. Jane N. Moffatt, has the minutes book and the membership book of the Church dating back to its start in the year 1830. From these books we gleaned the following facts.

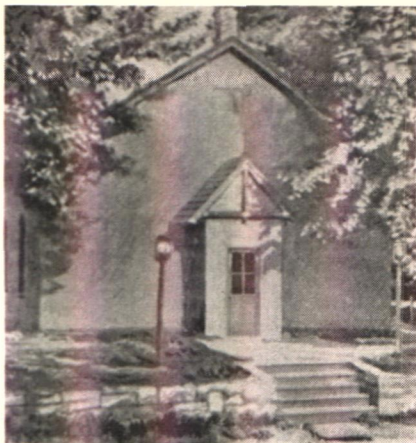

The Church was incorporated as "The First Particular Baptist Church of the Township of Ridley." On October 16, 1850, Watkinson was invited to its pulpit, although he was not yet ordained. On November 11, 1850, the Church voted Watkinson a salary of $200.00 a year. May 15, 1851, the Broad St. Baptist Church of Philadelphia was requested to ordain Watkinson. On October 16, 1851, Sarah I. Griffith, who later became the wife of Rev. Watkinson, was baptized. February 17, 1853, Watkinson resigned as pastor to take effect May 1 or sooner. In April, 1853, he went to the Falls of Schuylkill Baptist Church in Philadelphia.

Sarah Isabella Watkinson transferred her membership to the First Baptist Church in Richmond, Va., June 12, 1856. This shows that after the Watkinsons left the Falls of Schuylkill Church in Philadelphia that he preached in Virginia and must have preached there until about the time of the start of the Civil War. He must have taken a dim view of the War as seen in the South, for about that same date he arrived back in Pennsylvania. In June, 1861, he again preached in the First Particular Baptist Church of the Township of Ridley as a "supply" Minister, receiving five dollars a week until the end of the year.

The old church, erected in 1832

It was November 13, 1861, that Watkinson wrote the famous letter to Salmon P. Chase, then Secretary of Treasury under President Lincoln. Watkinson was troubled. He brooded over the low ebb of the Union fortunes. The Civil War was going badly. Bull Run had been a smashing fiasco from which the Union had not rallied. General Nathaniel Lyons had been defeated and killed in August at Wilson's Creek, Mo. October 21 brought another fearful defeat at Ball's Bluff. British vessels were in league with the South and fast Southern vessels were running the Union blockade successfully.

December 15, 1861, Watkinson was voted a raise in salary to $450.00 per year. On April 20, 1862, Rev. and Mrs. Watkinson were received into the fellowship of the Church. He resigned April 14, 1864, as Pastor of the Ridley Church. His closing sermon was given on the following Sunday. In 1865 the couple transferred their membership to the Second Baptist Church of Camden, N. J.

From this information we now know that Watkinson preached twice to the First Particular Baptist Church of Ridley township in Pennsylvania. He also preached starting April, 1853, in the Falls of Schuylkill Baptist Church in Philadelphia and during June, 1856, at the First Baptist Church in Richmond, Virginia. Also, in 1865 he preached in the Second Baptist Church of Camden, New Jersey.

We hope that some of these churches have records that will give us added information. Maybe he had descendants, or maybe a picture of him could be obtained. He deserves recognition for his famed letter:

November 13th, 1861

Hon. S. P. Chase,
U. S. Sec. of Treas.

Dear Sir:

You are about to submit your annual report to Congress respecting the affairs of the National finances. One fact troubling our currency has hitherto been seriously overlooked. I mean the recognition of the Almighty God in some form on our coins.

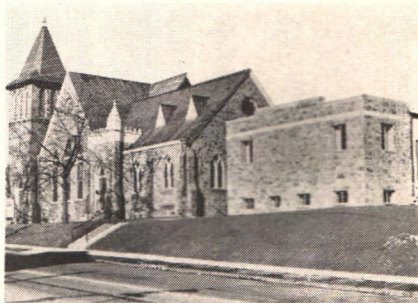

You are probably a Christian. What if our Republic were now shattered beyond reconstruction? Would not the antiquaries of succeeding centuries rightly reason from our past coins that we were a heathen nation? What I propose is that instead of a Goddess of Liberty, we shall have next inside the thirteen stars, a ring inscribed with the words Perpetual Union, within this ring, the all-seeing eye crowned with a halo. Beneath the eye the American Flag bearing in its field stars to the number of States United. In the folds of the bands the words God, Liberty, Law.

This would make a beautiful coin to which no citizen possibly could object. This would relieve us from the ignominy of heathenism. This would place us openly under the Divine protection we have personally claimed. From my heart I have felt our national shame in disowning God is not the least of our national disasters.

To you first I address a subject that must be adjusted.

Yours most respectfully,

M. R. Watkinson
Minister of the Gospel
Ridleyville, Pa.

Prospect Hill Baptist Church

Ancient coins had the name of their deity on their coins. So why should not our country do the same?

The Secretary of the Treasury, Salmon P. Chase, to whom the letter was sent, was deep in the problems of war financing. He read the letter from Watkinson and promptly recognized the merit of the plea. Within a week of receiving the letter Chase dispatched the following to Mint Director James Pollock:

Treasury Department
November 20, 1861

Dear Sir:

No nation can be strong except in the strength of God, or safe except in His defense. The trust of our people in God should be declared on our National Coins. You will cause a device to be prepared without unnecessary delay, with a motto expressing in the fewest and best words possible this national recognition.

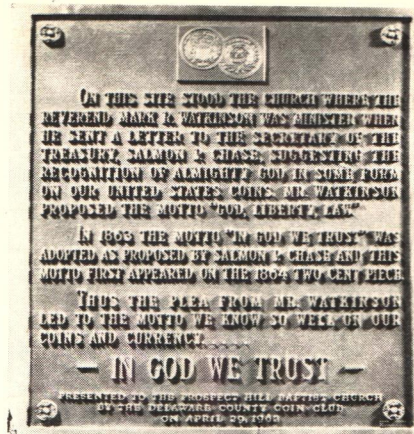

Yours truly,
S. P. Chase

Pollock referred the problem to Mint Engraver James Barton Longacre. I would guess that the idea of placing a motto on the coins was received favorably by Longacre, whose diaries reveal him to be a deeply religious man, even though it posed additional difficulties for engravers endeavoring to produce an artistic coinage. During the next few years a number of trial, sample or pattern coins were engraved with mottos such as "God-Liberty-Law," "Our Trust in God," "God and Our Country," "Our God and Our Country," and "God Our Trust."

In 1863 Chase authorized the minting of a two cent piece after changing the motto from "God Our Trust" to "In God We Trust." This two cent piece was first minted in 1864.

The idea of changing the wording may have come to Chase from our National anthem, written in 1814, which concludes with the words "Then conquer we must, when our cause it is just, and this be our motto - In God Is Our Trust."

On March 3, 1865, Congress approved the use of the motto and specified that the "Director of the Mint, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, should place the motto 'In God We Trust' on such coins that would admit of the inscription."

Many coins have carried the motto. But in 1907 the newly designed gold coins appeared without the motto, which had been eliminated by order of President Theodore Roosevelt. He had, he felt, a good reason to do this. During the preceding decade, the fight had been on free silver, of adopting a fixed value of sixteen to one relative to silver and gold. The Nevada silver interests were for it. The Democratic Party was for it. William Jennings Bryan ran for President three times and lost on that platform. The mining interests had supplied plenty of money for lobbying. They had signs made, roadside signs, which had a large picture of a silver dollar showing the motto "In God We Trust"; below the picture, "There is only 63 cents worth of silver in this dollar. It is only worth 63 cents. In God We Trust for the Balance." Theodore Roosevelt was disturbed about this. Some merchants had signs printed which read "In God We Trust, All Others Cash." Roosevelt considered these signs sacrilegious. However, public sentiment was against removing the motto and on May 18, 1908, Congress passed an act stating that "All gold and silver coins were to bear the motto." Public pressure was responsible.

The suggestion to include "In God We Trust" on our paper currency was presented to Treasury Secretary George W. Humphrey in November, 1953, by Matt H. Rothert, of Camden, Ark. Rothert's idea came to him while attending church one Sunday morning. It occurred to him that only the coins in the collection plate carried the motto. He then thought that since our paper money has a much wider circulation abroad than our coins, a message about this country's faith in God could easily be carried throughout the world if it were on United States paper money.

Secretary Humphrey favored the idea but felt that Congressional sanction was desirable. In March, 1955, through Rothert's efforts, bills were introduced into the Senate by Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, and in the House of Representatives by Congressman Bennett of Florida and Harris of Arkansas. The bill which was approved by President Eisenhower July 11, 1955, specified that "at such time as new dies for the printing of currency are adopted by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, the dies shall bear the inscription 'In God We Trust' and thereafter this inscription shall appear on all United States Currency and Coins." The first one dollar bill with the motto was printed in 1957.

The first letter suggesting the placing of the word "God" on our coins in some form was written in 1861. And now, more than one hundred years later, a plaque has been placed on the site in memory of Mark R. Watkinson. The plaque, twenty inches high and eighteen inches wide, was dedicated April 29, 1962.

On this site stood the church where the Reverend Mark R. Watkinson was minister when he sent a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury, Salmon P. Chase, suggesting the recognition of Almighty God in some form on our United States

Coins. Mr. Watkinson proposed the motto "God-Liberty-Law."

In 1863 the motto "In God We Trust" was adopted as proposed by Salmon P. Chase and this motto first appeared on the 1864 two cent piece. Thus the plea from Mr. Watkinson led to the motto we know so well on our Coins and Currency.

IN GOD WE TRUST

Presented to the Prospect Hill Baptist Church by the Delaware County Coin Club on April 29th, 1962.

The Church that now stands on the site of the old one is incorporated under the name of "The Prospect Hill Baptist Church." The address is Lincoln Ave. at Seventh Ave., Prospect Park, Pa. The unveiling was done by Samuel Newsome, President of the Delaware County Historical Society.

Today this motto has a ring of timelessness as though it had been given on tables of stone to the founding fathers of a republic conceived in a deep religious spirit. Yet until 1864 our country's moneys bore only practical and mundane Yankee slogans. The terse injunction "Mind your business," on the Fugio cent, the first coin issued by the United States, illustrates the temper of these times.

In ancient times the Greeks freely employed religious themes on the obverse of their coins, but the Romans usually used the reverse of theirs for this purpose. Many of the devices on the Greek coins alluded to the mythical origins of cities using them. Much can be learned of Greek mythology by their study.

Some modern coins have inscriptions mentioning "God" on them:

- 1726 — France, ecu: "Blessed be the name of the Lord."
- 1798 — Switzerland, ¼ crown: "The Lord Provides."
- 1806 — Sweden, 1/6 rixdaler: "God and the People."
- 1888 — Denmark, 2 kroner: "With God for Honor and Right."
- 1937 — England, crown: "God and My Right."
- 1939 — Dominican Republic, 1 peso: "God Liberty Country."

FINANCIAL HISTORY OF COLONIAL MARYLAND

By

RICHARD T. HOOBER, A.N.A. No. 9302

Concluded from August, 1962

In 1777, the loan office was taken from the hands of the old commissioners and given to others who were to have similar powers. Many of the bonds were overdue and some persons declined to have them redeemed in the depreciating paper as the legal tender Act of 1777 permitted. Also, the money that was contained in an old iron chest for redeeming the issues of 1770 and 1774, was taken for the use of the state, thus causing further difficulties and embarrassment of the financial system.

In an effort to halt further depreciation, Maryland, like Congress, passed at the first meeting in 1777, "An Act to Make the Bills of Credit Issued by Congress and the Bills of Credit Issued by Acts of Assembly and Resolves of the Late Convention a Legal Tender in all Cases," making the bills acceptable for all debts, past and future, at their face value, or at an advance of 66% for sterling. Anyone refusing to accept the bills was to be fined the value of the goods so sold. The State was also to accept these bills for taxes. Another Act, passed at the same session, established the customary penalty of death without benefit of clergy for counterfeiting either the State or Continental bills. Despite the provisions for redemption of the notes, the money taken in by taxes and other of the fund raising measures was not set aside carefully, but released and thus added further to the increasing depreciation, instead of reducing the amount of money in circulation.

For the Continental Army, the year, 1777, was one of mixed feelings. A few victories at Saratoga and Princeton, were more than offset by the defeats of Brandywine, Germantown, the British occupation of Philadelphia. Morale at its lowest point during the suffering of the encampment during the winter of 1777-78, at Valley Forge. Congress had drawn up the Articles of Confederation in November, and sent to the states for ratification, and there was some small hope of assistance by the French, growing bolder as a result of Burgoyne's defeat and surrender to Gates, October 17th. In February of the following year the French Alliance and Commerce Treaty was greatly strengthened. A certain amount of anxiety on the part of the British caused Lord North to send emissaries to America bearing an olive branch but by this time added hope for ultimate independence grew stronger with French assistance. In June, 1778, Clinton evacuated Philadelphia, and started his march across the flat countryside of New Jersey, where Washington finally engaged and defeated him at Monmouth.

The financial situation in Maryland continued to deteriorate, partly as a result of mismanagement. The laws enacted to help conditions did little to stem the tide of continuing depreciation of the currency. The Legal Tender Act caused hardship by permitting dishonest men the opportunity of paying off their debts in virtually worthless paper. From the New England Colonies southward, the clamor for more and more money continued to cause a degree of panic in the several Assemblies. Maryland resisted, however, at least for the time being, as no new emissions were created until June, 1780.

Georgia, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Virginia, and South Carolina, were the only states to make paper emissions in 1778, and only one issue each, thus indicating continuing strong legislative pressure against further issues. Statesmen in Congress also fully appreciated the damage done to the financial structure of the Colonies, arising from the large and diversified issues of paper money. Several times it recommended that bills of credit of the various states should no longer be issued so that Congress might have exclusive control of all future paper money. Franklin, Jefferson, and several other members devised schemes for instituting a standard of exchange, but little progress was made and notes issued by the Continental Congress suffered the same fate as notes issued independently.

Speculation during this period was rife. In Maryland, one practice against which several acts were passed, was that of forestalling and engrossing food and other necessities of life "by means whereof, and by the ill practices of speculators," the Act stated, "our currency is depreciated and the State brought near to bankruptcy." And yet, earlier disruptive practices could be laid at the legislature's own doorstep, for had the earlier provisions for full redemption of the bills in circulation been adhered to and enforced, funds would have been available for retiring the issues at maturity and the paper in circulation would have been held to a reasonable amount. As in every age before and new bills the state was to provide adequate funds and was to have six-tenths of them for its own use, the remaining four-tenths to be held in reserve for the use of Congress.

In December, 1779, the House of Delegates proposed to raise Maryland's quota by confiscation and sale of British property, but as the Senate would not agree, the plan was abandoned. As it was felt that so large a sum could not be raised by taxation, the Assembly decided to use its six-tenths of new bills it was to receive from Congress for the old Colonial currency. A bill was discussed but the Senate refused to pass it primarily because of a legal tender since, the basic principle of supply and demand was running true to form.

In all fairness to Maryland, however, she did call in the emission of 1766, dated January 1, 1767, and the other two strictly Colonial issues in the following year. Congress, meanwhile, was having problems of its own—something had to be done to redeem its own paper, and the plan was formulated on March 18, 1780, whereby the states were ordered to contribute $15,000,000 a month from January 1, 1780 to April 1, 1781, and assigned to each its proportionate share. If colonial bills of credit were paid in, they were to be destroyed; if specie, it was to be used to redeem notes in circulation. One dollar of specie was to be equal to $40 of paper. As rapidly as a state brought in old bills or specie, it was to get in exchange new bills equal to one-twentieth of the old bills. For retiring the clause which was contrary to Article XI of its Constitution, forbidding the annexation to a money bill anything "not immediately relating to and necessary for imposing, assessing, levying, or applying the taxes or supplies to be raised." However, before and since, in Maryland, as in other Colonies, previous laws and regulations had little effect in restraining the issuance of paper notes.

The fortunes of war during this year of 1779, were beginning to favor the Colonists' struggle. In February George Rogers Clark with a force of Virginians captured the British commander at Vincennes, completing the conquest of the Old Northwest. By June, Spain also entered the war against England, on the basis of French promises to regain Gibraltar and the Floridas. On September 23rd, John Paul Jones won an important naval victory over the English.

Three emissions were authorized in Maryland in 1780; June 8, June 28, and October 17. The June 28th issue was of the same type and form as those of seven other Colonies, guaranteed by the United States government, and bearing interest. All notes of this issue were printed by the Philadelphia firm of Hall & Sellers. The June 8th issue was printed by F. Green.

In March, 1780, Congress had discontinued the old currency and had undertaken to replace it with money issued by the states, with a guarantee made by Congress. This was a reissued during the war amounted to only $950,000, by far the smallest amount struck by any of the Southern Colonies.

An Act passed in June gave the citizens of the state until January 1, 1781, to bring in old bills for redemption, limiting each person to $110 for every pound's worth of property he had assessed in the state. In exchange for $200 of these bills, the holders were to receive six dollars. After January 1st, any one might bring in a sum not less than $200 to be redeemed at the same rate. As soon as Maryland's quota, which was $20,540,000, was received, redemption versal of earlier policy of Congress to take over for itself the issuing of all currency. But public faith was lacking and the crisp new notes began at once to depreciate. Five thousand dollars were required to pay for two Indian scalps taken by Pennsylvanians, "agreeable to the late proclamation of this board." Desperate letters were written asking for hard money to pay recruits. The bankrupts in the State House were sending money to the paupers in the field of battle and in the camps. So little hard money was raised and sent to Washington that he wrote to Gouverneur Morris on December 10th "it would be well for the troops, if like chameleons, they could live upon air, or like the bear, suck their paws for sustenance during the rigor of the approaching season." Maryland's portion of notes was to cease. At the same session a law was enacted declaring that neither gold, government, convention, nor Continental currency, should be a tender in law or equity for any debt, promise, contract, or agreement made in the future.

On November 7, 1780, a committee of the House of Delegates reported that in spite of the fact Maryland was offering to redeem old bills at higher rates than those established by Congress, only a small number of notes had been brought in and Colonial money had dropped to the pitiful ratio of eighty to one. The committee was alarmed at the enormous debt that would ultimately accumulate to Maryland if the ratio of thirty-three and one-half to one was maintained after January 1, 1781, and recommended that both the state and Continental Congress notes should be called in and redeemed at the fixed ratio of forty to one. Actually, approximately $115,266 was brought in for redemption. It was decided to use the six-tenths of the new Continental issue apportioned to the state to redeem the Colonial notes, and citizens were given until March 1, 1781, to bring in the old bills. After March 20, 1781, none of the bills called in were to be legal tender. Thus the evils of the 1777 act were entirely repealed.

The issue of June 8, 1780, was small, amounting to £5,400, primarily to provide small change. As it was

During 1781, practically all of the Colonial paper money disappeared from circulation. The early emission had been redeemed at par, and later at the established ration of forty to one. The Revolution prevented all bills from being redeemed at face value, for the funds generally were sufficient for the purpose. The Assembly was not using them for public finance to any great extent. Dr. Behrens wrote that "as a Colony, Maryland had solved the problem of a paper currency." However, this was not entirely accurate, for the failure of the Colony to redeem the recently issued "black money," as being printed, an equal amount of notes of larger denominations was being called in and destroyed. This issue was referred to as "black money."

Several critical events occurred in this year of 1780, which caused grave concern among the Colonists, as "fickle fortune" apparently deserted the cause of independence. In May, Charleston surrendered to Sir Henry Clinton. South Carolina was overrun by the British. Gates was defeated by Cornwallis at Camden, Sumter's forces were defeated by Tarleton. Marion retreated to North Carolina. With the capture of Major Andre in September, the plot to surrender West Point by Benedict Arnold was exposed. However, in October, the tide again turned favorable with the British defeat at King's Mountain, North Carolina.

promised, was due to the insecure nature of the security for the notes.

Following the war and a return to peaceful pursuits, England and the European countries sought trade with the United States, and were in a position to advance funds and credit to the republic in a competitive effort to capture the desired trade. The basic trouble in Maryland's history, as in the other Colonies, was a distracting confusion of fiscal with monetary theories and policies regarding the issuance of notes. The security used so often in the form of commodities and crops reflected the alternating periods of prosperity when the crops were bountiful and prices held relatively firm, and those periods of depression when blights or droughts caused prices to drop and the farmers yield to suffer seriously. It was truly an agrarian economy with scarcely any manufacturing or commerce to balance the effects of nature's whims.

As far back as November, 1777, Congress had submitted the Articles of Confederation to the several states, and by 1779, all states had ratified them except Maryland. She held out until March 1, 1781. In January, Maryland applied to Luzerne for French aid in defending the Chesapeake Bay region against the British fleet, but it was pointed out to Maryland that if the Confederation should be completed this must be favorable to American unity and also to the interests of the French allies. As a result of such pressure, she finally ratified the Articles.

An Act to raise supplies in 1781, allowed the collectors of taxes to receive the old bills until March 20, and bring such notes to the Treasury to be exchanged for new bills. But, the old notes came in very slowly, and as late as 1783, a report showed that $6,913,813 had come in. Final report dated February 27, 1792, placed the figure at $6,922,013 for the end of 1783. Thus, Maryland still owed more than $13,500,000 of her quota set up by Congress. When the time for exchanging all old state bills had expired, there still remained on hand $8,850 which was finally burned by order of the Assembly, in November, 1798. By this symbolic act, the colonial financial history of Maryland came to a close. The era was characterized, as we have studied, by large issues of paper with no security of value except pledges of an infant government that they would, at some future date, be paid in full. The accompanying depreciation, the ensuing attempts to support the wavering credit of both state and Continental currencies finally culminated in redemption at only one-fortieth of their original value.

The Act of the May session, 1781, pledged the sale of the iron works of Nottingham as security for the "black money" emission, for which 6% bonds were to be held by the Treasurer of the Western Shore. Anyone who wished, might buy these bonds, paying in the "black money," receiving in return proportionate principle and interest with some rights to recover possible losses in the event payment was not effected. A later Act, passed in November, appropriated any surplus beyond what was needed to redeem the "black money" to the sinking fund for Continental and state bills.

The issue of May 10, 1781, with red border, was dubbed "red money," and was struck in eight denominations from a shilling to £3, to be redeemed between December 25, 1784, and June 25, 1785, and totalled £250,000. One-fifth of the amount was to be used for defense of the state, the remainder to be used for the continuance of the Southern campaign. While the state was struggling with financial difficulties, the American army was suffering defeats and hardships, retreating across the Carolinas toward Virginia. The invasion of Maryland appeared imminent, and the state had practically no money to spend for its own protection. Despite these strict economies, the necessity for the new emission was only too apparent. These bills were also to be received in payment of 1781 taxes at par with specie. Everywhere throughout the state meetings were held to uphold the emission, and an association was formed by most of the subscribers to take the bills at par. Despite all precautions taken to prevent and forestall depreciation, the notes were unfavorably received. Three months after the emission was struck, their value had dropped 100%.

This study has made an effort to supply another factual link in the chain of those colonies which endeavored to establish and operate individual systems of currency exchange. Admittedly, the tools with which the Colonists labored, were crudely fashioned, and the results of their labors were of poor quality, but the lessons they exemplified to future generations to avoid similar pitfalls will always remain. The notes themselves, crudely designed and printed, for the most part, signed by statesmen, merchants, traitors, and farmers, are among the most important and cherished relics of American numismatic history.

CUBAN PRISONER OF WAR MEDAL

A medal to commemorate the ill-fated invasion of Cuba on April 17, 1961, has been struck by the Medallic Art Co. for the Cuban Families Committee for Liberation of Prisoners of War, Inc., 527 Madison Ave., New York 22, N.Y. Only 1,179 medals, in bronze and Size 40, one for each prisoner held by Fidel Castro, have been made. Four trial pieces were struck in bronze but were left without a number to distinguish them from the regular issue. Two of these are being withheld for presentation to the Museo Nacional de Cuba and for the Sociedad Numismatica Cubana when Cuba is once more a free nation. The other two are being retained by the Committee and will be conferred on a meritorious individual or institution at a future date. Purchase of the medals remaining after a first offering to interested families may be made by collectors and others. Price is $25.00.

The description is as follows:

Obv.: In the field, the official emblem of the 2506th Brigade worn on the uniforms of its men: A white Christian Cross on a shield of blue (sky) and green (land), with the flag of Cuba superimposed. Around the shield the motto, JAMAS ABANDONAREMOS NUESTRA PATRIA (We shall never abandon our Fatherland). Above, within a badge, the number 2506, which was the serial number of the first member who died, accidentally killed while in training camp. Under the emblem a lone star, traditional symbol of the free Republic of Cuba. Around, CUBAN FAMILIES COMMITTEE FOR LIBERATION OF THE PRISONERS OF WAR.

Rev.: In the field, a truncated arm holding the flaming torch of Liberty symbolizing the unswerving faith in the final victory of the cause. To the right, in four lines, FOR / FREEDOM / WITH / HONOR over six small stars in a row, that stand for the six Provinces of Cuba: Pinar del Rio, La Habana, Matanzas, Las Villas, Camaguey and Oriente, signifying that the Brigade was composed of Cubans from every part of the country. Around, above, 2506TH BRIGADE, below, PLAYA GIRON • CUBA • APRIL 1961. (Playa Giron is the beach in the Bahia de Cochinos, "Bay of Pigs," where the landing took place. The legends are in English because of the traditional friendship of the citizens of Cuba and the United States.)

Portraits Found on Obsolete Paper Money

GALLERY OF CIVIL WAR GENERALS

By

FRED R. MARCKHOFF, A.N.A. No. 6160

THE NUMISMATIC and historical observance of the Centennial of the Civil War would not be complete without an illustrated study of the paper currency of that era on which are portrayed wartime generals and other leading military figures, from Presidents Abraham Lincoln and Jefferson Davis on down the ranks. Extensive research has revealed the rather astonishing fact that about forty heroes of the 1861-1865 conflict were so honored on our obsolete paper currency and scrip. They are presented herewith as a group for the first time.

Included are more than a dozen portraits on our obsolete notes which have not been identified previously in numismatic works. Among these are the following Federal officers: Robert Anderson, Nathaniel P. Banks, Francis P. Blair, Jr., Ambrose E. Burnside, Joseph Hooker, John Pope, William S. Rosecrans, Isaac Shepard, Daniel E. Sickles, John H. H. Ward.

Identified is Willard P. Hall, Governor of Missouri and actively in charge of its militia. Two Confederate Generals, Howell Cobb and David E. Twiggs, are also identified. Not included are Generals already identified but whose portraits have been discovered on notes not previously listed in numismatic works.

Important corrections were found to be in order on data previously considered authentic on several subjects. One of these is in connection with the portraits of four military men on the $1 note of the Bank of Montgomery County, Norristown, Pa. The long standing identification of one of them as "Gen. Adam Jacoby Clemmer" has been found to have an incorrect spelling, as the last name is "Slemmer."

Also, Edwin Schall, another of the four men on this note never attained the rank of General, although it was accorded him in previous works on the subject. Schall's rank was that of Colonel when he was killed in action. Thus, this particular note portrays three Generals and one Colonel, not four generals as has been indicated up to now. Verification in both of these instances was made by the Historical Society of Montgomery County, Norristown, Pa., and by Civil War experts.

Perhaps the most unexpected discovery was in regard to the portraits on the $5 and $10 Virginia Treasury notes of 1862, known as Criswell Nos. 13 to 15 and Nos. 8 to 12, respectively. Neither the authorities of the several Virginia Historical Societies consulted, nor C. J. Affleck, the foremost collector of Virginia currency, consider the portraits on this $5 and $10 note to be of the same man, despite the fifty year or longer attribution to the effect that both are of John B. Floyd.

As might be expected, there are differences of opinions even between experts in this matter. A lack of sufficient numbers of portraits for comparison in the files of Virginia historical institutions is the largest handicap to making a definite identification possible. Consensus of those consulted seems to favor the identification of Governor Floyd on the $5 and General Henry A. Wise on the $10. This is, of course, far from a definite verification, and until all present doubt is removed from the General Wise identity, or whoever it may be, the quandary remains with us.

Several regrets, far beyond the writer's control, includes the fact that not a single note could be found bearing General Robert E. Lee's portrait, despite diligent search. Also, there is a virtual two to one ratio of Union Generals over Confederate Generals. This undoubtedly stemmed from the ever shrinking military and economic status of the Confederacy from 1863 on. The facilities, qualified help and available paper became increasingly scarce by the day, often coming close to the point of being nonexistent.

For the benefit of the advanced collector, it should be explained that no attempt was made to include military portraits found on satirical or political notes, inasmuch as these were never intended for use as money. Nor does this work include subjects found on regularly issued United States fractional currency or greenbacks. Their inclusion would not only be a duplication of Robert Friedberg's fine work, but would also mean extension into an entirely different type and period of currency. The line had to be drawn also on the use of bonds. Because any bond payable at a future date, or having detachable coupons, was never intended as a circulating medium, they were excluded.

Although a work of this kind can never be considered complete due to lack of access to all collections, no effort was spared in making this article as complete and correct as possible. It is seldom that a numismatist has an opportunity to do original research on, and present a subject of such combined numismatic, military, historical and sentimental interest as this. If a small contribution to our knowledge of Civil War days and to the general subject of Americana has been made, the purpose of this article will have been served.

To the memory of President Abraham Lincoln and his brave men in blue, and to the memory of President Jefferson Davis and his equally brave soldiers in gray, this work is dedicated.

PRESIDENT ABRAHAM LINCOLN, U. S. A.

President Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky in 1809, and spent his youth in the usual manner of that day, in hard, self sustaining work with little or no compensation and very little formal education. After his family moved to Illinois, Lincoln took employment as a store clerk. He became a partner in a grocery store which failed and left him heavily in debt. His intense search for knowledge led him to read every book available and culminated in study of the law. This self education bore fruit in his election to the State Legislature and in receiving a license to practice law in 1836. He settled down to practice law in Springfield and in 1842 married Mary Todd. He served one term in Congress, 1847-1849, but failed at reelection. The mounting interest in sectional politics interested him greatly, causing him to join the new Republican Party in 1856. This political interest culminated in Lincoln becoming an active stump speaker against the spread of slavery. His stature as a political speaker and figure grew rapidly and the series of debates with Stephen A. Douglas in 1858 gave Douglas senatorial election and Lincoln national prominence for the first time. Lincoln's nomination and election to the Presidency followed in 1860. His platform to save the Union at all costs was met by formation of the Confederacy and war itself. Granted virtually dictatorial war powers, he followed the progress of the war in great detail, knew his military leaders well and showed the greatest of patience with their shortcomings. His death at the hands of John Wilkes Booth on April 15, 1865 at Ford's Theater left the North in mourning. His views on reconstruction were best expressed in his second inaugural address, "... with malice toward none; with charity toward all."

SECRETARY OF WAR EDWIN McMASTERS STANTON, U. S. A.

Secretary of War Edwin Stanton was born in Ohio in 1814. After attending Kenyon College he practiced law and became interested in politics. He held a number of minor political offices in the 1840s and 1850s. In 1860 President Buchanan named Stanton his Attorney General. His political position on the urgent question of the time was neutral, as he disliked slavery but upheld the slaveholders' constitutional rights under the law. After Cameron had been relieved as Secretary of War, President Lincoln appointed Stanton to the position in 1862. Despite political differences, he served Lincoln ably and loyally. Stanton remained on in the same position under President Johnson. Shortly, however, he became bitterly opposed to Johnson's reconstruction policies. He was asked to resign but refused and was suspended. Ulysses S. Grant was appointed Secretary of War ad interim, but the Senate restored Stanton to his position. Johnson tried again to remove him, but this time the Senate advised Johnson that he lacked the power to remove Stanton. The latter, however, resigned. In 1869 he was appointed Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, but died four days after receiving the appointment.

GENERAL ROBERT ANDERSON, U. S. A.

General Robert Anderson was born in Kentucky in 1805. He graduated from West Point in 1825 and also taught artillery tactics there. The Seminole War and Mexican War each gained him one brevet, but he was severely wounded in the latter conflict. After serving on numerous army boards and commissions he was given command of the defenses of Charleston Harbor in 1860. He transferred the garrison from Fort Moultrie to Fort Sumter on Dec. 26, 1860. It was Anderson and his troops that sustained the opening bombardment of the war, from which he gained the sobriquet "Hero of Fort Sumter." He was promoted to rank of Brig. General May 15, 1861, and for a time commanded the Department of Kentucky and the Department of the Cumberland. He gained the rank of Major General on Feb. 3, 1865. On April 14, 1865, he attended ceremonies at Fort Sumter, when the original flag was again raised on the anniversary of the Fort's surrender in 1861. His telegram that the original Stars and Stripes were flying again over Fort Sumter was sent to President Lincoln and was read by the President shortly before his assassination. It is said this was Lincoln's last official act. Gen. Anderson died in 1871.

GENERAL ADAM JACOBY SLEMMER, U. S. A.

General Adam Slemmer was born in Pennsylvania in 1828, graduating from West Point in 1850, twelfth in a class of forty-four. After serving in the Seminole War and on frontier duty, he taught at West Point. Shortly after the outbreak of war in 1861, Slemmer was appointed Major of the 16th U. S. Infantry. By autumn of 1861 he had become Inspector General of all the forces in Ohio. In 1862, under Gen. Buell, he performed brilliantly in defense of Fort Pickens in Pensacola Bay. His appointment as Brig. General came on Nov. 29, 1862. A month later he was badly wounded at Stones River, Tenn. After recovery, his duty was confined to staff and board work. He was brevetted for his war service and became a Brig. General in the regular Army after the war. He died while on active duty at Fort Laramie, Wyo. in 1868. [Use of the name "Slemmer" rather than "Clemmer" has been verified by the Historical Society of Montgomery County, Norristown, Pa.]

GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT HANCOCK, U. S. A.

General Winfield Scott Hancock, born in Pennsylvania in 1824, graduated from West Point in 1840, eighteenth in a class of twenty-five. He served on the western frontier, in the Mexican and Seminole Wars and in the Kansas border dispute. His rank was that of Captain from 1855 to Sept. 23, 1861 when he was promoted to Brig. General. From the defense of Washington, Hancock moved into more active operations in Virginia by March, 1862. He engaged in some of the heaviest fighting of the war during 1862 and 1863 at the Battles of Antietam, Fredericksburg, Chancellorsville and Gettysburg. On Nov. 29, 1862, he became a Major General but was badly wounded at Gettysburg and forced out of action. Upon returning, he was again in the thick of action at Spotsylvania, the Wilderness, Cold Harbor and Petersburg. By Aug. 12, 1864, he had become a Brig. General, and for his work at Gettysburg he was given the thanks of Congress. Electing to remain in the regular Army after the war, Hancock became Major General in 1866. He was the unsuccessful opponent of James Garfield in the 1880 Presidential race. He died in 1886.

COLONEL EDWIN SCHALL, U. S. A.

Colonel Edwin Schall, another Pennsylvanian, was born in 1835. After graduation from law school he entered politics, twice being elected Burgess of Norristown. At the outbreak of war he was also proprietor and Editor of the National Defender, a Norristown newspaper. At the first call for volunteers, Schall and his four brothers responded together. Edwin Schall was chosen Major of the 4th Pennsylvania Volunteer Regiment. After brilliant work at Antietam, he was promoted to the rank of Lt. Colonel, and participated in fifteen major engagements between 1861 and the spring of 1863. Also in 1863, he commanded the 51st Pennsylvania Regiment and later led a brigade in the Tennessee campaigns. But at the age of 29, Edwin Schall was killed on June 3, 1864 at Cold Harbor, Va. [The Historical Society of Montgomery County, Norristown, Pa. has verified the portrait on the Bank of Montgomery County as being that of Edwin Schall, and that his military status was Colonel rather than General, as stated in previous numismatic works.]

GENERAL JOHN FREDERICK HARTRANFT, U. S. A.

General John F. Hartranft, also a Pennsylvanian, was born in 1830 and was starting in politics when war came in 1861. He was named Colonel of the 4th Pennsylvania Volunteer Regiment in April, but in July he was mustered out and on Nov. 16, 1861, was given a re-appointment as Colonel of the 51st Pennsylvania Regiment. Despite lack of previous military experience, Hartranft was a "fighting general," commanding various brigades or divisions in the heaviest battles. His creditable performance in every engagement did not go unnoticed, for on May 12, 1864 he was given the rank of Brig. General. For his gallant stand at Fort Stedman, Va. he was brevetted Major General on March 25, 1865. He also received a belated Medal of Honor on Aug. 21, 1886 for having volunteered his services at the first Battle of Bull Run, when the rest of his regiment sought to be mustered out following defeat. Hartranft left the Army in 1866 and went on to serve in numerous public offices, including that of Governor of Pennsylvania from 1872 to 1878. He died in 1889.

GENERAL NATHANIEL PRENTISS BANKS, U. S. A.

General Nathaniel Banks was born in Massachusetts in 1816 and entered politics at an early age. After holding minor political offices, he came into national prominence as a member of Congress from 1853 to 1857. He served as Governor of Massachusetts from 1858 to 1861 and, for a short time, was President of the Illinois Central Railroad. When war came he offered his services and was commissioned Major General on May 16, 1861. After heading several army departments, he was given command of the Fifth Army Corps of Virginia and later the Second Corps of Gen. Pope's army. But Gen. Banks lost military stature when he twice became a victim of Jackson's brilliant strategy, especially in the Shenandoah Valley campaign. He was given command of the Military District of Washington from September 12 to October 27, 1862. He then succeeded Gen. Butler in command of the Department of the Gulf and led the ill-fated Red River campaigns of 1863 and 1864. Upon being superseded by Gen. Canby, Banks resigned. He returned to Congress after the war, serving there almost continuously until 1877. He was elected again in 1888 and altogether served in ten Congresses. He retired from public life in 1890 and died three years later.

GENERAL FRANCIS PRESTON BLAIR, JR., U. S. A.

General Francis P. Blair was born in Kentucky in 1821 and graduated from Princeton in 1841. He studied law and practiced in St. Louis for two years, but poor health caused him to spend several years in the Rocky Mountains. Upon his return, cured, he fought in the Mexican War as a private and then plunged into politics. A strong Unionist, he founded the Free Soil Party of Missouri in 1848. From 1856 to 1858 and from 1860 to 1862, Blair was a U. S. Congressman from Missouri. By 1860 he clearly saw the danger of losing St. Louis unless decisive measures were taken. His vigilant "Wide-Awakes" organization led to the capture of Camp Jackson in St. Louis in 1861 and the arming of Gen. Nathaniel Lyon's forces to safeguard the city. Blair raised seven regiments before entering military service as a Colonel, was appointed Brigadier General on August 7, 1862 and Major General on November 29 the same year. He commanded the Fifteenth and Seventeenth Corps at various times in the Georgia and Tennessee campaigns. After the war, Blair returned to his law practice and in 1868 was the unsuccessful Vice Presidential candidate. He was elected to the Senate to fill an unexpired term in 1871 but failed at reelection in 1873 and died in 1875.

GENERAL AMBROSE EVERETT BURNSIDE, U. S. A.

General Ambrose Burnside, born in Indiana in 1824, graduated from West Point in 1847. He served in both the Indian and Mexican Wars but resigned from the army in 1853 to manufacture firearms. In 1856 he invented a breech-loading rifle. He left this work to join the Illinois Central Railroad Company and became its Treasurer by 1861. When war came, he was made Colonel of the 1st Rhode Island Volunteers, and commanded a brigade at the First Battle of Bull Run. For his work here he was promoted to the rank of Brigadier General. A successful expedition against North Carolina coastal defenses earned him a Major Generalcy. After his reluctant acceptance of the command of the important Army of the Potomac, his first failure at Fredericksburg caused him to accept a more subordinate role. He took command of the Army of the Ohio in 1863, and in this capacity he captured Morgan's Raiders and also led the siege on Knoxville. In 1864 he was returned to command of the Ninth Army Corps in the Virginia campaigns. Again relieved of his command for mishandling troops in the Petersburg mine assault, Burnside received no further major assignments. After the war he engaged in railroad work, was elected Governor of Rhode Island in 1866, was reelected, then served as a U. S. Senator until his death in 1881.

GENERAL JOHN CHARLES FREMONT, U. S. A.

General John C. Fremont was born in Georgia in 1813. Becoming a mathematical genius even while in school, he taught that subject in the Navy. In 1838 he joined the Army Topographical Engineers Corps and for seven years became prominent as "The Pathfinder" for his explorations in the Rocky Mountains. In 1846 his appearance in California saved that area for the Union in its prestatehood struggles. Upon receiving statehood, California elected Fremont a Senator. In 1856 he was an unsuccessful Presidential candidate. He was made a Major General on July 3, 1861, in charge of the Western Department but after being defeated at Wilson's Creek, Mo., he was transferred to the east. Here he was unsuccessful in opposing Gen. Jackson in the Shenandoah Valley campaign. When his Corps was placed in the Army of Virginia under Gen. Pope on June 26, 1862, Fremont refused to serve under him and was relieved June 28, 1862. He spent the balance of the war "awaiting orders." He withdrew as a Presidential candidate at the last moment in the 1864 race. After the war he engaged in railroad building and in 1878 was made Territorial Governor of Arizona. He died in 1880.

GENERAL ULYSSES SIMPSON GRANT, U. S. A.

General U. S. Grant was born in Ohio in 1822 and graduated from West Point in 1843, twenty-first in a class of thirty-nine. At the close of the Mexican War he already was an army captain. His postwar duty led him to the west coast; but away from his wife and family he took to drink, causing him to neglect his duties. In 1854 he resigned from the army to avoid a court martial, and moved with his family to Missouri. Unable to get ahead in business there, he moved to Galena, Ill., where he made a fair living. Grant offered his services to Lincoln in 1861 but was not accepted until Congressman E. B. Washburn intervened in his behalf. After a setback at Belmont, Mo. in November, 1861, Grant's rise was steady. His successes at Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, Shiloh and Vicksburg brought the focussed national attention upon him. Further successes around Chattanooga caused his promotion to Lieutenant General on March 9, 1864; and three days later he was made commander of all the armies. His relentless pursuit of Lee's army led finally to Appomattox. After the war Grant became Secretary of War and served two Presidential terms, 1868-1875. Later he took a two year world tour, lost his savings in bad investments, and wrote his autobiography. He died in 1885.

GENERAL JOSEPH HOOKER, U. S. A.

General Joseph Hooker, born in 1814 in Massachusetts, graduated from West Point in 1837. A very active military career followed, in both the Seminole and Mexican Wars and on the western frontier. But in 1853 Hooker resigned and engaged in farming in the far west. When war came, he was appointed Brigadier General of Volunteers on May 17, 1861 and was immediately pressed into service in the defense of Washington. He led an army division in most of the Virginia engagements of 1862. His promotion to Major General came on May 5, 1862. He was a corps commander in both the Army of the Potomac and the Army of Virginia, and good work earned him a promotion to Brigadier General in the regular Army on September 20, 1862. The following January he was made commander of the important Army of the Potomac, but his defeat at Chancellorsville caused him to be relieved by General George Meade in June. Sent to the west as a corps commander, he took part in Tennessee and Georgia campaigns in 1863 and early 1864. In October, 1864, he asked to be relieved and was sent to the Northern Department, where he served for the balance of the war. For his able defense of Washington and Baltimore, Hooker received the thanks of Congress, being one of fifteen so honored. After receiving the belated rank of Major General in the regular Army, he retired in 1868. He died in 1879.

GENERAL ANDREW JOHNSON, U. S. A.

General Andrew Johnson was born in 1808 in North Carolina. Of a very poor family, he moved to Tennessee as a young man and was apprenticed to a tailor. His almost complete lack of formal education was partly overcome by his young wife who even taught him to read. From 1830 to 1861 he was successively an alderman, mayor, State legislator, U. S. Congressman and Governor of Tennessee. Because of his known opposition to slavery, Johnson was appointed Military Governor of Tennessee by President Lincoln in March, 1862, when that State was open to Union occupancy for the first time on a large scale. To supplement his authority, he was given the rank of Brigadier General also. By 1864 he had a well organized system of local governments, a work which gained him the nomination as Vice President on Lincoln's ticket in the 1864 election. Victory at the polls followed, with Johnson succeeding Lincoln to the Presidency upon the latter's death. Johnson clashed head-on with his Congress, culminating in his impeachment. This action failed by one vote and he completed his term in office. In 1875 he was elected to the Senate but died in the summer of the same year.

GENERAL GEORGE BRINTON MCCLELLAN, U. S. A.

General George B. McClellan was born in Pennsylvania in 1826 and graduated second from the top in the West Point class of 1846. After meritorious service in the Mexican War he resigned from the Army in 1857 with the rank of Captain. He became a Vice President of the Illinois Central Railroad and in that capacity he became acquainted with Abraham Lincoln, then one of the railroad's attorneys. When war came, McClellan became Major General of Ohio Volunteers and later was made commander of the Department of the Ohio. After the near disaster at Bull Run in 1861, he was placed in command of the forces around Washington. In November, 1861, he succeeded Gen. Winfield Scott as commander in chief. His lengthy and intensive program of Army organization was helpful but produced no victories and aroused dissatisfaction. After further lack of aggressiveness in several engagements, his command was given to Gen. Burnside. McClellan's friends urged him to enter politics after this rebuff and he became an unsuccessful Presidential candidate in 1864. After the war he became chief engineer of New York City's Department of Docks and was Governor of New Jersey from 1878 to 1881. He died in 1885.

GENERAL JOHN POPE, U. S. A.

General John Pope was born in 1822 in Kentucky, graduating from West Point in 1842. After serving in the Mexican War and engaging in Army survey expeditions, he explored the far west for a number of years. His 1856 rank of Captain was elevated to that of Brig. General on May 17, 1861. During that year, he commanded both the Districts of Northern and Central Missouri, as well as a Division in the Army of Southwestern Missouri. In February of 1862 he took command of the Army of the Mississippi and was promoted to Major General on March 21. General Pope was selected by President Lincoln on June 26, 1862, to head the new Army of Virginia and did well until he met the Lee-Jackson combination, which defeated him soundly. This caused him to be relieved of his command in favor of Gen. McClellan. He then commanded the Department of the Northwest for most of the remaining war years and was instrumental in putting down severe Indian uprisings in Minnesota. Remaining in the service after the war, he became a Major General in the regular Army in 1882, retired in 1886 and died in 1892.

GENERAL WILLIAM STARKE ROSECRANS, U. S. A.

General W. S. Rosecrans was born in Ohio in 1819 and graduated from West Point in 1842, fifth in a class of fifty-six. After working in the east and teaching at West Point, he resigned to become a civil engineer, architect and oil refiner. On April 23, 1861, he joined the Ohio Volunteers as a Colonel and aide-de-camp on Gen. McClellan's staff. He was appointed Brig. General on June 16 and first commanded a brigade in the Army of Occupation, West Virginia. He was elevated to the rank of Major General of Volunteers on March 21, 1862 for good work in the Department of West Virginia and in the Army of the Mississippi. Other assignments included command of the District of Corinth in the Battle of Corinth on July 20, 1862, and of the Army of the Cumberland, October 30, 1862. His defeat at Chickamauga, Tenn., cost him the command, however. He "awaited orders" until January 30, 1864, when he was given command of the Department of the Missouri. He was one of fifteen officers given the thanks of Congress for gallant work at Stones River, Tenn. Also made a brevetted Major and later a Brig. General in the regular Army, he resigned in 1867 to become Minister to Mexico, 1868-1869. He then became a rancher and Congressman in California, and died in 1898.

GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT, U. S. A.

General Winfield Scott was born in Virginia in 1786, was admitted to the bar in 1806, but turned to military activities a few years later. His early military experiences were gained in the War of 1812 and the Mexican War. Valor displayed in both these conflicts gave him an enviable reputation on the battlefield and public acclaim which gained him the Whig party nomination for President in the election of 1852. He was made general in chief of the Army in 1841 and still occupied that post in 1861. Not yielding to his physical impairments and advanced age, he remained on as Army chief until a suitable successor could be found. In November, 1861, his resignation was accepted and his post turned over to Gen. McClellan. Scott was one of the few Army chiefs who never attended West Point. His "Anaconda Plan" for victory in the war was derided when first proposed in 1861, yet was ultimately followed to a great extent before the war ended. After retirement, Scott made a European trip and wrote a two volume memoir. He died in 1866.

GENERAL ISAAC FITZGERALD SHEPARD, U. S. A.

General Isaac Shepard was born in Massachusetts in 1819, and his early years were spent as a school teacher and principal. Later he successfully ran for the Massachusetts State Legislature. Unable to obtain the desired military status in his home State because of lack of previous training, Shepard went to Missouri and joined the state militia on June 18, 1861. After serving as Gen. Lyons' aide-de-camp, he was commissioned Lt. Colonel of the 19th Missouri Regiment on August 30, 1861. His full rank of Colonel was received the following January 18. Shepard became Colonel of the 51st U. S. Colored Infantry on May 9, 1863, the first and only such unit in the western theater of the war. On October 27, he was promoted to the rank of Brig. General and commanded a brigade in the Vicksburg District until his appointment expired on July 4, 1864. Later he became active in politics in Missouri, and from 1874 to 1886 served as U. S. Consul in China. When not actively engaged in politics, Shepard worked as a newspaper Editor and also wrote several volumes of poetry. He died in 1889.

GENERAL DANIEL EDGAR SICKLES, U. S. A.

General Daniel Sickles was born in New York City in 1819 in a family whose original name was Van Sicklen. After a few years at New York University he studied law and was admitted to the bar in 1843. In 1847 he was elected to the New York State Assembly, and in 1853 he became New York City Corporation Counsel. Sickles was a U. S. Senator from 1856 to 1861.

After Fort Sumter was attacked, he raised the Excelsior (X.L.C.R.) Brigade of New York City and was made a Colonel on June 20, 1861. Lincoln nominated him for Brig. General on Sept. 3, 1861. Sickles fought under Gen. Hooker in the 1862 Virginia campaigns and also led the Second Division, Third Corps in earning promotion to Major General on Nov. 29, 1862. In the Gettysburg campaign he lost a leg, causing his retirement from active duty. He stayed in the Army, however, and in 1865 was sent on a secret mission to South America. From late in 1865 to 1867 he was Military Governor of the Carolinas. Sickles received a belated Congressional Medal of Honor for his work at Gettysburg and retired with the rank of Major General. He was Minister to Spain from 1869 to 1873. Sickles was largely responsible for preserving the Gettysburg battlefield as a National Park. He died in 1914.

GENERAL JOHN HENRY HOBART WARD, U. S. A.

General John Ward was born in New York in 1823. He made the Army his career while still a very young man. During the Mexican War he saw extensive service as a member of the regular Army and was badly wounded in one of the battles. He gave up military life around 1850 and engaged in private enterprise. But when war came in 1861 he sought and received a commission as Colonel of the 38th New York Regiment on June 8. He commanded various brigades in several different divisions between 1861 and 1864. At the first Battle of Bull Run, he commanded the Second Brigade of the Third Division. On Oct. 4, 1862 he was promoted to the rank of Brig. General. Transferred to the important Army of the Potomac, he took part in many of the heaviest engagements of the war, including Chancellorsville, Gettysburg, Spotsylvania and the Wilderness campaign. Ward was wounded in almost every major action he was in and was unable to continue in an active status beyond July 18, 1864, when he was mustered out of service. No record could be found of his postwar activities, or the year of his death.

GENERAL JOHN ELLIS WOOL, U. S. A.

General John E. Wool was born in 1789 in New York State. His first military experience was in the War of 1812, during which he raised a company at Troy, N. Y. He also rendered distinguished service at Plattsburg and Queenstown Heights. Wool remained in the Army and by 1841 had become a Brig. General. In the Mexican War he and his men traveled nine hundred miles on forced march from San Antonio, Texas to Buena Vista to join forces with Gen. Zachary Taylor. When war came in 1861, he was made commander of the Department of the East. In August, 1861 he managed to hold Fort Monroe despite vigorous opposition. His forces later occupied evacuated portions of Virginia. On May 16, 1862 he was given the rank of Major General, making him the fourth ranking General in the service, superseded only by McClellan, Fremont and Halleck. Age and bad health were beginning to tell, however, and although given command of the Middle Department, the Seventh Corps and the recreated Department of the East, he retired from the army in July 1863, and died in 1869.

Paper Money of the United States: Complete Illustrated Guide with Valuations by Robert Friedberg, fourth edition, 1962, The Coin and Currency Institute, Inc., New York 1, N. Y., 303 pp., $12.50. This is the standard work on U.S. paper money and includes large size notes, fractional currency, small size notes, encased postage stamps since 1861, all of which are pictured. The text lists, describes and evaluates each type and gives a numismatic history of our paper money. A complete listing of National Bank notes by states and the illustrations of types of the series along with estimated values makes this work even more worthwhile. Since the third edition, only one major note has been discovered: Two year interest bearing $100 note of 1864 was found in a Kentucky bank. Since no specimens were known before, it had been assumed none was extant. About two dozen National Bank notes, unknown heretofore in certain states, have been discovered. Valuations have been reviewed and priced upward in most instances. This book appeals, not only to the active collector, but also to the banker, historian, those interested in engraving as an art.

U. S. QUARTER DOLLARS

By

RUSSELL S. PORTER, A.N.A. No. 6145

Paper Read Before the Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society Meeting of December 5, 1961

ALONG with the establishment of the United States mint in 1792, the decimal system of coinage was adopted. It constituted fractional parts of the dollar or units of value, and was expressed in terms of half, quarter, tenth, twentieth, one-hundredth, and two-hundredth part of a dollar. To the credit of Thomas Jefferson and his adherents, the system has been retained down through the years, with the addition and deletion of a few minor units of exchange.

It is interesting to note however, that one denomination, the quarter dollar, although its annual production was extremely low by comparison with the other denominations, did enjoy a rather constant yearly coinage. In only one single year prior to 1853 did the coinage exceed the million mark, and for twenty-five years immediately following the Civil War, the total annual production rarely exceeded 100,000 pieces. In fact, for a nine year period commencing in 1879, the largest annual coinage was less than 16,000 pieces. Commencing with the year 1891, however, the quarter dollar enjoyed a larger coinage than for the entire century or so preceding it. This large production was continued generally up to and including the present time.

It is not the intention of this article to try to elaborate or amplify the efforts of Haseltine and Browning, who have so ably described the early history of the quarter dollar, but merely to direct attention to some of the interesting peculiarities of the later types.

The Barber or Liberty Head type, minted from 1892 to 1916, offers little in the way of numismatic interest in that it provides us with a generally uniform coinage throughout its twenty-five years of production, the only recognized deviation being a slight die variation in its initial year of coinage. Mention might be made here of three years in which the coinage produced by the San Francisco mint was comparatively low. They were the years of 1896, 1901, and 1913. In this latter year the coinage was only 40,000, the lowest production of any denomination of regular coinage of the present century except gold.

The type of 1916, known as the Standing Liberty, was designed by Herman MacNeil and has provoked a great deal of numismatic discussion. Excluding the first year of issue, this quarter enjoyed a normal coinage, exceeding a million copies annually, with production discontinued in 1930 after a short reign of only fifteen years. In many respects this quarter is one of the most controversial in the history of United States coinage. Hardly had it been released to circulation until a wave of disapproval followed, due to Miss Liberty's seminudity. Mint officials, harkening to the voice of the people, in the following year provided a change in Miss Liberty's apparel and as a cover-up for the cover-up, they ordered a minor adjustment on the reverse of the coin by changing the location of the thirteen stars as well as the eagle. With this new attire, the coin had eight years of smooth sailing. However, in 1924, it was discovered that the dates were disappearing from the entire series, while other features of the coin remained in good condition. So in 1925 a depression was made on the pedestal on which Miss Liberty stands, and which also bore the date. On the preceding issues the dates were high and not protected by other features of the coin. The new recessed dates proved more durable.

Although coinage was discontinued in 1930, it was several years later that numismatists awakened to the fact that most all of the early minted quarters were dateless. Now we must remember that numismatists were comparatively few in the early thirties, and this feature, although recognized, held little significance to them. Any worn coin unless it was an extreme rarity was considered as junk, and the junk collector was frowned upon by his worthy peers in no uncertain terms.

But in 1936, a story appeared in the Chicago Daily News, reprinted in newspapers all over the United States, calling attention to the dateless quarters and encouraged the public to save those with readable dates. One Chicago numismatist issued a pamphlet in which he reported the scarcity of certain dates and offered to buy them at prices ranging from thirty cents to $8.00 each. The latter offer was for BU specimens of the 1919-S, his contention being that this date was the rarest of the series, much rarer than the 1916. As for the 1927-S, he offered to purchase them in BU condition for $1.20 and to sell the same for $2.50.

Shortly after this release, the 1918-S overdate was discovered, and here again, no special significance was attached to this find. After all this was an old time practice in mint circles and was found in almost all collections of early cents and half dollars, so it was passed off lightly as just another curiosity.

It required another five years or so for our numismatic fraternity to discover an added feature of this series. In striking the coins, the die impression generally left a concave forehead of Miss Liberty, and only on a very few specimens did the strike permit a full head impression. Here again, this rarity did not receive the recognition to which it was entitled, although collectors in general began to look for the full head type.

In this writer's opinion the spark that more than any other provided the desire to collect coins that has been increasing in momentum from this period until the present, was controversial Standing Liberty quarter. Commercialism in coins, which had been nothing but smoldering embers up to this time, suddenly burst into flame. Dealers took on an air of importance, and with it the increase in ranks, until you couldn't recognize a collector from a dealer, even with a score card.

In 1932 the present series of George Washington quarters was adopted, and like its contemporary series, it is in greater demand every day. After a year and a half of coinage, the die was revised because the faint impression of the motto "In God We Trust" was gradually disappearing from continued wear. A new and deeper worded die was prepared and has been retained up to the present.

Although the higher echelons of our numismatic fraternity have failed to recognize officially this new type, it will most certainly take its place in the future. There are those who have also pointed out a third type, differing from the second only in a slight variation of the lettering of the motto. This type, as well as the second type, were both disclosed in 1934. It is significant that only the Philadelphia Mint produced the first variety in that year, and although there is no official record of numbers struck, it is generally considered that the first type is much the scarcer than the combined second and third type.

LATEST OFFICIAL GOLD COIN ORDER

Executive Order 11037

AMENDMENT OF SECTION 12 OF EXECUTIVE ORDER No. 6260 OF AUGUST 28, 1933, AS AMENDED

By virtue of the authority vested in me by Section 5(b) of the Act of October 6, 1917, as amended, 12 U.S.C. 95a, and in view of the continued existence of the national emergency proclaimed by Proclamation No. 2914 of December 16, 1950, I, John F. Kennedy, President of the United States of America, do hereby further amend Executive Order No. 6260, as amended, as follows:

1. Section 12 is amended to read as follows:

"12. Except under license issued therefor pursuant to the provisions of this order, no person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States shall, after the effective date of this section, acquire, hold in his possession, earmark, or retain any interest, legal or equitable, in any gold coin, gold certificates, or gold bullion, situated outside of the United States or any securities issued by any person holding, as a substantial part of his assets, gold as a store of value or as, or in lieu of, money and not for a specific and customary industrial, professional or artistic use. The Secretary of the Treasury, subject to such other regulations as he may prescribe, is authorized to issue licenses permitting the acquisition and holding by persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of gold bullion situated outside of the United States which the Secretary or such agency as he may designate is satisfied is required for legitimate and customary use in the industry, profession, or art in which such person is regularly engaged."

2. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 1 of this Order, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to issue licenses permitting, until January 1, 1963, the holding and disposition or importation of gold coins having a recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin situated outside of the United States which were acquired by persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States prior to the effective date of this amendment and are owned by such persons on such date.

This amendment shall become effective upon filing for publication with the Office of the Federal Register.

JOHN F. KENNEDY

THE WHITE HOUSE,

July 20, 1962

[F.R. Doc. 62-7266; Filed, July 20, 1962; 1:32 p.m.]

Following the President's proclamation (above) on importation and ownership of certain gold coins by Americans abroad, Commissioner of Customs Philip Nichols, Jr., on July 27 issued a directive to all Collectors of Customs and Appraisers of Merchandise. Important paragraphs from this document are:

3a. The amendments to Sections 54.14 and 54.20 of the Gold Regulations prohibit the acquisition and possession by persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States of any rare gold coins situated outside the United States. The amendments also prohibit the importation of any rare gold coins except under license issued by the Office of Domestic Gold and Silver Operations, Treasury Department, Washington 25, D. C.

3b. Notwithstanding the above amendments, new Section 54.82 permits, until January 1, 1963, the importation without a Treasury Department gold license of rare gold coins, as defined in Section 54.20*, situated outside of the United States which were owned by any person subject to the jurisdiction of the United States on July 23, 1962. Entry of gold coins, except for sale to the Mints under Section 54.40, shall not be permitted until the person importing such coins shall have satisfied

*The definitions as given in Section 54.20 of the Gold Regulations are:

54.20 (b) Gold coin made prior to April 5, 1933, is considered to be of recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin.

54.20 (c) Gold coin made subsequent to April 5, 1933, is presumed not to be of recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual coin.

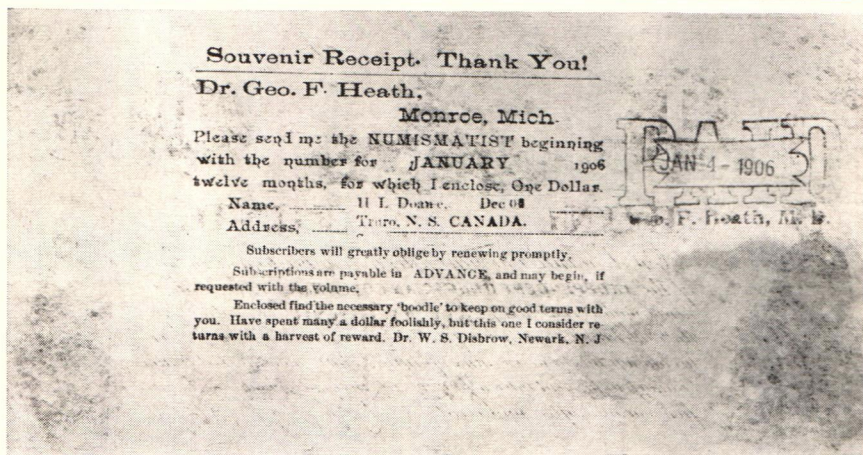

the Collector of Customs that such coins are of recognized special value to collectors of rare and unusual gold coins and that they were owned by such person on July 23, 1962.

Occasionally the U. S. Treasury Department has allowed certain recently struck gold coins to be brought into the United States but only after the Department ruled them "rare and unusual." Not many coins met the requirement.

Under the new regulations Americans holding gold coins abroad may bring them into the country until January 1, 1963, providing the pieces were held by the owners on July 23, 1962 (i.e., before the President's proclamation) and providing the coins meet the Treasury's definition of "rare and unusual." Americans traveling outside the United States who have said they "would like to pick up a few gold coins" while in foreign lands are advised not to do so.

NOTES & QUERIES

Sherbrooke 125th Anniversary Medal

In commemoration of the 125th anniversary of the City of Sherbrooke, Quebec, the Chamber of Commerce announces that it will issue a dollar size medal. To be struck by Canadian Artistic Dies, Ltd., the obverse will depict Sir John Coape Sherbrooke, Governor-General of Canada from 1816 to 1818. Coat of arms of the City and the dates 1837-1962 will be on the reverse. The dies will be engraved by O. Lombardo, who worked for seven years as steel engraver for S. Johnson, one of the best known medalists in Italy.

To be issued in August, the medal will be struck in silver (limited to 1500) at $6.50, in bronze at $2.00 and in aluminum at 50¢. Orders at the above postpaid prices may be sent to the Sherbrooke Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 591, Sherbrooke, Quebec, Canada until December 31, 1962. At this time the dies will be defaced and presented to the Seminary of Sherbrooke Museum, which houses one of the finest numismatic collections on public display in Canada.

Coins of Finland

Dear Mr. Bradfield:

Being a Russian coin collector and also a collector of Russian-Finnish coins, I was delighted to read F. J. Bingen's article in the February, 1962, issue of The Numismatist. He has, however, omitted three coins that are mentioned in the Mikhailovich books: the 1866 20 penniä and two different types of the 2 penniä piece.

20 penniä 1866. Assumed to be a pattern. Obv. Plain circle with pearly rim; blank. Rev. Inscription 20/penniä/1866 around the circle pearly rim. Edge: Plain. Silver.

2 penniä 1866. Mikhailovich states this is a pattern. Obv. Similar to above. Rev. Similar except for value. Edge: plain. Copper.

2 penniä 1866. Pattern. Obv. Similar. Rev. Similar but no pearls. Edge: Plain. Copper.

There are also trial pieces of 1863 which are of copper and in denominations of 20, 10 and 5 penniä but I have not seen them.

International Dealers Discourage False Coinage

At the recent eleventh annual congress of the International Association of Professional Numismatists at Innsbruck, Austria, 35 of the leading professional numismatists of Europe and the United States unanimously endorsed a resolution condemning the practice of private striking of modern gold coins which simulate earlier regular issues. The congress branded these items "falsifications" and refused to dignify them even as restrikes. The term "restrike" is to be reserved only for those coins which are actually restruck from the original dies by the mint authorized to do so.

Full support of the Professional Numismatist Guild of the United States was assured, according to A. Kosoff of Encino, Cal., who is Chairman of the Guild's Committee on Detrimental Practices. His report indicated that the major numismatic publications of the United States had offered his committee their assistance.

The meeting authorized the publication of all known falsifications in book form. The publication committee is headed by the President, Xavier Calico of Barcelona, Spain, with the Secretary, Emile Bourgey of Paris, France as his Co-Chairman. In charge of the foreign section will be Jacques Schulman of Amsterdam, Holland, a past President of the Association. A. Kosoff will be in charge of the United States section as well as of the editing responsibilities. The book will be printed in English.

Attending were these American representatives, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Merkin of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Stack of New York City and Mr. and Mrs. A. Kosoff. The congress voted to hold its twelfth meeting in Monte Carlo in June, 1963 but not before extending the heartiest congratulations to Mr. Sig Werkner of Innsbruck for the very successful congress this year.

OKNA Convention

When collectors and friends gather in Wichita for the fifteenth annual convention of Oklahoma-Kansas Numismatic Association October 19-21, they will find the atmosphere of a national affair. Housed in the Hotel Broadview, the host will be the Wichita Coin Club, of which the late Lewis M. Reagan was first President. Jack Hazelwood will be in charge of the fifty-table bourse and also will supervise the Saturday evening auction. The registration fee of $5.50 will include a ticket to the banquet which precedes the auction.

Thirteen beautiful trophies will be awarded to first place winners and best-in-show in seven exhibit classes, with junior exhibitors receiving trophies for first, second and third places. An application and exhibit rules may be secured from Lomen Salisbury, Jr., 126 S. Kansas St., Wichita, Kansas. Under the direction of Merle Younklin, an educational booth will have continuous showing of A.N.A. coin slides and there will be a showing of display material for every type of collection. Activities for the ladies will include a hospitality room, a tour of a local flower shop and a breakfast on Saturday in the famous Old Cow Town Hotel.

Pope's Encyclical Subject of a Medal

The publication on July 14, 1961, of his social encyclical, Mater et Magistra, has been chosen as the subject of the commemorative medals issued to mark the fourth year of the reign of His Holiness Pope John XXIII. The first copies of the medals in gold, silver and bronze were presented to Pope John by Gustavo Cardinal Testa, Pro-President of the Cardinals' Commission for the Administration of the Property of the Holy See. The medals bear a likeness of the Pope on one side. For information, write Amministrazione dei Beni della Santa Sede, Citta del Vaticano, Italy.

Customs Agent Seizes Late Date Gold Coins

U. S. Customs agents seized about $5,000 worth of gold coins, mostly Mexican of recent years, from four San Antonio coin dealers July 12. About 280 pieces were taken and receipts handed to their owners.

Iowa Numismatic Association September Convention

Unexpected requests for exhibit space has dictated a change to larger quarters in the Ottumwa Coliseum for the annual convention of I. N. A. on September 22-23. Opening at 10 a.m. Saturday and closing at 6 p.m. Sunday, the program includes exhibits and bourse, an auction at 2 p.m. each day, the annual banquet Saturday evening and the business meeting Sunday morning. Included in the exhibits will be an 1804 silver dollar, 1913 liberty nickel, "The History of Coins" display from the First National Bank of Chicago, the Harris Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago's display of coins and currency of United Nations members, and the rare American copper trial pieces of 1867 recently found in a vault at the State Historical Department in Des Moines.

The Ottumwa Coin Club is host and extends a warm welcome to all to attend this State convention in Ottumwa, Iowa, on September 22-23. — W. J. TRENEMAN, 204 W. Woodland St.

Space Medals

Wendell-Northwestern, Inc., Minneapolis, makers of special coins, badges and commemorative items, recently struck a medal honoring John Glenn's flight into space. As a result, the company received an order from a Soviet citizen, who sent American stamps in payment for the Glenn medal.

"What puzzles us," said William Bryant, company vice president, "is that several months ago we issued a medal commemorating Yuri Gagarin's historic space flight. At that time, we didn't get a single response from the Russians."

Guessing that perhaps the Soviets simply did not know about the Gagarin medal, complimentary issues of both the Gagarin and Glenn medals were sent to Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev. The Glenn medal is the third in a series honoring American space achievements, previous issues commemorating Explorer I's orbital flight and Alan Shephard's suborbital Project Mercury flight. The medals sell for $1.25 in nickel silver, and $3.75 in sterling silver.

San Diego Clubs Show Coins at County Fair

It is estimated that over 350,000 persons according to Francis S. Jones, Supt., viewed the exhibits of the tenth annual numismatic show held in connection with the Southern California Exposition and San Diego County Fair, June 29 to July 8, at Del Mar. The show is sponsored by the San Diego County Inter-Club Numismatic Council.

Among the thirty-three exhibitors, who filled fifty-two cases, the husband and wife team of Harvey and Patsy Rose won the two top awards. Rose, Secretary of the San Diego Numismatic Society, won best-in-show in the senior division with Mexican coins and currency. Mrs. Rose won the Elise Wallace Memorial trophy for her Mexican silver medals. Junior division best-in-show went to Hale Pike for his presidential and mint director medals.

First place winners were: Charles Jackson, coins of different metals; William West, coins and currency of Japan; John C. Wold, modern coins of Afghanistan; Paul Hamm, gold coins from the seven U.S. mints; Ken Hedges, seals and coats of arms in numismatics; Al Barber, U.S. nickels; and Robert Gee Estell, foreign coins. Second and third place winners were: Robert Brosch, Eleanor Yachwan, Frank Deegan, Raymond Toy, Elmer Tvedt, Joseph Garside, Virginia Bourke, Tom Ward, Roger Sullivan, Charles Jackson and Robert Gee Estell.

Firsts in the junior division went to Donald D. Rose, San Diego tokens and medals, and Lee Lubrano, U.S. type coins. Other junior winners were: Oakley Pike, Charles DeJoseph, Victoria Jones, Tom Rose, Deborah

JUST FOR FUN

At a business meeting of Florida United Numismatists to check plans for the annual convention January 3 to 7, 1963, at Miami Beach's Fontainebleau Hotel, were these officers and directors, l. to r.: J. H. P. DePass, Cecil Moore, Robert Hendershott, Grady Radford, President Grover Criswell, Jr., Herbe Jenne, Jack Sweetman, Charles Price, Managing Director Harry O. Adams, and Treasurer Douglas Brown (seated).

Tokens

Henry Evanson, Spruceland Stamp and Coin Co., 115 State St., Springfield 3, Mass., has issued a store card with the Confederate States of America half dollar replica on one side and value on reverse. This token is good for fifty cents on purchases from him of five dollars or more. He will send two tokens for 25¢ plus stamped, self-addressed envelope to collectors who state they "saw it in The Numismatist."

Charlottesville, Va., famed as the home of the University of Virginia, of Thomas Jefferson's Monticello, of James Monroe's Ash Lawn, and where Edgar Allen Poe studied and wrote, etc., has issued a token on its two hundredth anniversary, according to William B. Spilman, P.O. Box 1027, Waynesborough, Va. Tokens are available from him or the Peoples National Bank of Central Virginia, Charlottesville. Jefferson's Monticello is featured on the obverse and value on the reverse.

SOCIETY OF MEDALISTS: SIXTY-FIFTH ISSUE

Of the sixty-fifth issue in the Society of Medalists series, its sculptor, Oronzio Maldarelli says:

"In designing this medal I have indulged in my favorite theme, the human figure, per se. The figure in action or repose has always fascinated me and it has been the basis of my major works.

"The subject, which centers around aspects of the joys of life, is an appreciation of the grace and beauty of the human form, its endless rhythms as it moves in the dance, in sports, play or at work. Thus I have chosen the dance, figures in action, bathers, in repose and at play.

Obverse

"It has been a pleasure and a privilege to design this medal. As its function is not to memorialize a specific subject, I hope it will be interpreted and accepted as a piece of sculpture and perhaps enjoyed as such."

Born in Naples, Italy, September 9, 1892, the artist became a naturalized citizen of the United States in 1920. He is Professor Emeritus of Sculpture at Columbia University and has won many awards and honors.

ZERBE AWARD TO HEWITT

The Farran Zerbe plaque is presented annually for distinguished service to the A.N.A. Lee F. Hewitt, this year's recipient, is well known as the Editor of the Numismatic Scrapbook. Established in 1951, the award was conferred on M. Vernon Sheldon, 1951; Mrs. June Pond, 1952; Col. Joseph Moss, 1953; Lewis M. Reagan, 1954; Dr. J. Hewitt Judd, 1955; Richard S. Yeoman, 1956; none, 1957; Burton H. Saxton, 1958; Louis S. Werner, 1959; Glenn B. Smedley, 1960; Dr. John F. Lhotka, Jr., 1961.

CSA ISSUES OF 1861 IN PANORAMA

1861 Financing, First and July 25th Issues

The rapidly expanding seriousness of the conflict is evident in the succession of the Confederacy's financing Acts, and the frustrations in securing paper currency to meet its early needs. Early in the life of the Confederate Government it was clear that reliance must be placed on paper money as a medium of exchange. The Confederacy probably never had as much as $5,000,000 in specie or bullion and this was greatly needed for purchases abroad. No issues were backed by specie. On March 9, 1861, the Congress authorized an issue of $1,000,000 (increased in August to $2,000,000) in 3.65% interest-bearing notes, payable one year after date of issue.

On May 16, a little more than two months after the first authorization, $20,000,000 was authorized for another issue. Only three months later, on August 19, a third issue of $100,000,000 was authorized, which was increased the following December to $150,000,000, and again in April, 1862 to $200,000,000.

In contrast to the interest-bearing provisions of notes under the Act of March 9, 1861, notes under both the May and August Acts bore no interest. Further, under the May 16 Act, the notes were PAYABLE TWO YEARS AFTER DATE and under the August 19 Act SIX MONTHS AFTER THE RATIFICATION OF A TREATY OF PEACE BETWEEN THE CONFEDERATE STATES AND THE UNITED STATES. These steps, significant of the rapidly changing outlook, were the major financing actions that resulted in various dates on the interest-bearing notes and the two dates, July 25 and September 2, on all other 1861 notes. These changes in the fiscal picture and difficulties with procurement and delivery of the notes resulted in a complicated web of events, and a succession of note issues.

Little more than a month after the March 9 enactment, C. G. Memminger, the Secretary of the Treasury, received 607 sheets of notes from the National Bank Note Company of New York, composed of four excellently engraved notes in $50, $100, $500, and $1000 denominations, printed on fine paper in black and green. These were the "Montgomery" notes, as Montgomery, Ala., was the Confederate capital for a short time until its removal to Richmond late in May, 1861. Additional half sheets of the $50 and $100 notes were secured before the United States authorities closed in early in May and seized the plates which Memminger had requested be forwarded to him. Thus, this very helpful but decidedly irregular source for the first Confederate notes was soon choked off.

As there was continuing need for a supply of $50 and $100 interest-bearing notes, five thousand of each were contracted for in New Orleans on May 13, followed soon by contracts for the $20,000,000 in noninterest-bearing notes authorized by the Act of May 16. Failure of prompt production led to search for other sources of supply. Equipment, materials and engravers were sought even from abroad. Some relief was afforded by loans of notes from private banking institutions in a number of cities to the Treasury, against deposits of its Montgomery interest-bearing notes as security.

TYPE 101. Three Negroes in cotton field. Printed in black and green on bank note paper. $50.

The first relief from this embarrassing situation was obtained under the contract with a Richmond firm of lithographers, Hoyer & Ludwig. One can imagine the pressure on this establishment to deliver these new $5, $10, $20, $50 and $100 notes for issuance, as Fig. 1 shows, all in the latter part of July, 1861. In contrast to the handsome, engraved, Montgomery interest-bearing notes, the Hoyer & Ludwig lithographs were severely criticised for their crude designs and printing and inferior paper. They were widely regarded as an invitation to easy counterfeiting.

*The first digit of the type number identifies the year of issue, ie., 1 for 1861, 2 for 1862, etc.

Note: Only the central or other prominent subjects on the note are described. Printing with color in addition to black is indicated in ().

These notes, Nos. 107, 109, 110, 111 and 112 were the first to bear the date July 25, 1861. They reflect the Treasury Department's changing needs, and the complications in a lithographic plant of that day operating under forced pressure. To the numismatist, they present a great array of varieties. Technically, many are related, but in enigmatic patterns. Two or more denominations sometimes were printed from a single plate or stone. Altered lithographic stones sometimes were used for different "series" of the same denomination. Much research still remains to be done on these comparatively drab, though challenging notes.

Glancing higher on the chart, we note the Richmond $50 and $100 interest-bearing notes (Nos. 105 and 106), ordered three months earlier from New Orleans, finally appeared late in August. These exemplify high quality engraving and printing by the Southern Bank Note Company, previous to the outbreak of hostilities a branch of the American Bank Note Company of New York. They were authorized by the Act of March 9, and were issued bearing various dates and for the same purposes as their companion "montgomery" notes. They have inaccurately been called "first Richmond" notes. Although they are the first "Richmond" notes bearing interest, as shown by the chart, the Hoyer & Ludwig noninterest bearing notes preceded them by a month and were actually the first "Richmond" notes.

The other tardy note, the last of the notes dated July 25, had been contracted for in May with J. Manouvrier, New Orleans, and appears on the chart September 20, 1861. These scarce lithographed $5 notes (No. 108) of plain design, the only 1861 notes with printed backs, were delayed by engraving and printing troubles and then by theft of some unsigned sheets from the consignment enroute to Richmond. Recovered sheets of a companion $10 note in the same shipment were destroyed, but none of the unrecovered notes have as yet made their appearance.

September 2, 1861 Issue

Following passage by the Confederate Congress of the Act of August 19, 1861, about September 14 appeared the artistic black and green $20 note (No. 130), a well executed lithograph from the presses of Hoyer & Ludwig. This is a scarce note, the first of the multitude bearing the date September 2, 1861. This bicolored note obviously was intended to provide considerable counterfeit-deterrent improvement over the much criticised plain notes of the July 25 issue, produced by the same firm which were still circulating. However, the heavy demands of the Treasury Department for more notes, which is apparent lower down on the chart, probably dictated discontinuance of this note after less than two months because two-color printing doubled press and manpower requirements for the same note output. Also, it may be that suitable green ink was in short supply. Entries in the Register and the existence of several engraving varieties indicate interrupted production due to irreparable damage to the original lithographic stone, the preparation and brief use of a second stone, then correction of errors and resumption printing from it. Together, these difficulties must have accelerated the discontinuance.

The issue of September 2, 1861 notes, produced in quantity by Hoyer & Ludwig, was delayed until the appearance late in October, 1861, of the $50, $100, and $20 notes (Nos. 135, 138, and 131 respectively). These plain, lithographed notes continued to be issued well into 1862. They occur with many different "serial letters," apparently to conform to Treasury Department requisition and accounting requirements, and are particularly numerous in the $20 denomination. The various "serial letters" (sometimes called "plate letter numbers" or "plens"), together with irregularities in entering the designs on the lithographic stones, resulted in many variants.

BOOK REVIEWS

Numaria Medieval Portuguesa* by J. Ferraro Vaz, two vols., 1960, Oficinas de Bertrand (Irmaos), Na. Tr. Da Condessa do Rio 7, Lisbon, Portugal: maps,

A new era dawned in the study of medieval (1128-1383) Portuguese coinages when this work appeared in late 1960. Since 1880, the primary text on this series has been the medieval section of the monumental work by Teixeira de Aragao, an unobtainable set whose information has become badly dated by the passage of time. The reviewers predict that this reference set by Ferraro Vaz will eventually be the definitive work on medieval Portuguese coins much as his earlier book on the modern series is replacing Aragao in that area.

It is difficult to review such a well organized, well written, fully documented, magnificently illustrated set in limited space. However, a few brief notes will demonstrate the scope of Vaz's efforts. The two volumes contain, in addition to text, reproductions of 43 pertinent medieval documents relating to coinage (with translations in the text when vital), two map plates, 32 plates of coin types (with line drawings to bring out variations in types and inscriptions), twenty plates of related medieval art works (seals, etc.), complete coin lists with cross references to Aragao, and a lengthy bibliography. The text includes innumerable line drawings illustrating points mentioned in adjacent paragraphs, full data on the mints and mint practices, metrology, forgeries, symbols, types and inscriptions, economic data, and information on personages involved in the coinages. To illustrate the progress made in this series since 1880, it is enough to note that while Aragao listed one variety of dinheiro for Afonso I and three for Denis, Vaz lists 51 and 34. A solution of the sticky problem of coins bearing the name "Sancho" is suggested by attributing the "triangular" and "teardrop shield" types to Sancho I and assigning the others to Sancho II. Vaz, interesting enough, follows Aragao in attributing the tornese bearing the name "Denis" to King Denis rather than to Denis the Pretender as do many modern experts.

This set constitutes a splendid numismatic work and could well serve as a guide to other authors. For example, there is not one text of this caliber in the United States series available to the collector. The fact that the books are written in Portuguese will tend to discourage some readers, but it must be noted that the coin lists (volume two) can be followed easily without any command of that language and the excellent illustrations do much to aid such readers. Now that this work is available, medieval Portuguese numismatics should move out of the limbo it now occupies in this country. — J. F. LHOTKA JR. and P. K. ANDERSON

How United States Coins Are Made* by Walter Thompson, Hewitt Bros., Chicago, 1962, 48 pp., paper covers, $1.

This is a fairly sketchy account of processes at the Philadelphia Mint for making dies, planchets and coins. Though intended for the neophyte, it is still full of technical terms, many of them misused. About the most interesting and informative things in the booklet are the illustrations. Regrettably, the text will not stand up to detailed examination as to historical accuracy (save where Thompson quotes actual documents), soundness of analysis of data, comprehension of minting processes past or present, or grammar. A remark, for instance, like "The process of 'drawing a hub' is the making of successive working dies from a master die" is—as it stands—nonsense. Thompson's well-known reluctance to use any sources except Archives documents, or to analyze the material obtained from them, has also led him into egregious howlers like "... the entire working die with the exception of the date was 'drawn' from a master die during and after the year 1804." Were such a statement true, it would require the mint to have made one new hub for every single working die from 1804 on, and in particular sixty or seventy new obv. and rev. hubs for the half dollar alone each year from about 1823 on, for every variety shows distinctive irregularities in spacing of letters, and any two working dies made from a single hub "complete except for the date" would show the identical letter spacing. (As in fact was the case from late 1835 on for cents, 1837 on for silver.) Moreover, this remark of Thompson's betraying a fundamental misunderstanding of Nineteenth Century die-making methods, also makes unintelligible to him the contracts pursuant to which Gobrecht furnished the Mint letter and numeral punches from 1824 on. Simple examination of the coin might also have saved Thompson from falling into the error of calling the three-legged nickel a "filled die"; it, in fact, resulted from drastically grinding down a die which had been defaced by clashing against another without a planchet between them. Calling broken dies "mint errors" is like calling a man with a broken arm a freak (p. 45). The "double struck coin" illustrated on p. 47 could easily have been made at home.

The fair thing to do with the Thompson manuscript would have been to submit it to someone like Mr. Lodovico of the Coining Room at the Mint, before publication. In this way some of the more obvious errors could have been avoided. One may fervently hope for a second and drastically revised edition to replace this one, the sooner the better. — WALTER H. BREEN

An Illustrated History of United States Coins* by A. Kosoff, Encino, Cal., 1962, 76 pp., paper covers, $7.50.

From the title, one would expect a collection of historical data about the Mint, its personnel and processes, the coins struck and proposed for striking, with the reasons for type changes, alloy changes, new denominations, coinage proposals, etc. And in fact its author leads one to anticipate exactly that in his introduction: "... the history of any subject is the whole story of that subject . . .," "... an understanding of the reasons underlying the proposal as well as the rejection . . ." But what we get instead is merely an extensively (and often illegibly) illustrated fixed price list (prices on application) of the Dr. J. Hewitt Judd collection of patterns together with his type set of regular issues. As a catalog of a magnificent collection it has its interest, but as a history it is a misnomer. What little historical material is attempted is crammed with errors. Among the most egregious of these is the discussion of the Idler "1804" dollar (offered with this collection), omitting any mention of restrikes, let alone of the well-established fact that the first type "1804" could not have been made before 1836, and vainly attempting to discredit Eric Newman's conclusive exposure of the Zerbe-Werner-Ostheimer "1804" and "1805" dollars as alterations. A few other errors are here corrected: The "pattern" eagles dated "1804" were actually struck between 1858 and 1869; the type change in the 1854 trime actually reflects its alloy change from billon to standard silver; the 1859 regular proof cent (No. 223) is not a transitional coin; the 1861-S Paquet double eagle (p. 29) was first published in the 1937 Numismatist by A. J. Fecht, and first documented by me in 1951 from Archives material as a brief regular issue, not by the cataloger; the twelve-star 1828 half cent (p. 67) never had a thirteenth star on the die; the "1804" cent restrike was almost certainly made outside the Mint from old and badly rusted dies discarded as junk in 1817 — probably in the same lot where young Mickley got the 1802 half cent die to make his own restrikes; there are two varieties of 1813 cent; there were six hundred silver dollars made in March, 1837 from 1836 dies; and the Philadelphia double eagle without motto was coined only through 1865, not "through 1866."

The cataloger correctly believed that a complete history of U. S. coinage needed to be written. Unfortunately, it still needs to be. — WALTER H. BREEN

Finland Currency Reform — Finland is planning a currency change to become effective January 1, 1963. A hundred of the present marks will equal one new Finnmark, US $1.00 will be equal to 3.22 new Finnmark.

Victoria Cross Brings $1,540 — A Victoria Cross won by late Pvt. Frederick Corbett for bravery during the Egyptian campaign in 1882 realized $1,540 at a recent Sotheby auction.

National Currency of Mali — The Republic of Mali left the West African monetary union on June 30, 1962 and created its own national currency and bank of issue, called the Banque de la Republique du Mali. The new franc's value is fixed at 0.0036 gram of fine gold, equivalent to that of the CFA franc. The latter ceased to be legal tender July 1, 1962 and could have been exchanged up to July 16 at a rate of one CFA franc to one Mali franc. (International Financial News Survey, July 13, 1962)

NEW OR RECENT ISSUES

By

ERNST KRAUS, LM 129

It is the important duty of The Numismatist to record and illustrate new coins. To accomplish this, members in the United States and abroad are invited to submit new issues to Ernst Kraus, Apt. A, 1501 E. Mt. Airy Ave., Philadelphia 50, Pa. Coins will be photographed and returned as soon as possible, and a credit line will be given to anyone assisting.

Club News

The Guymon Coin Club is planning a coin show and auction for September 15 and 16 in the Venetian Room of Hotel Dale in Guymon, Okla. To avoid crowding, the number of bourse tables is being limited to twenty at $15 each. Prizes are to be given for the best exhibits. The hotel is air conditioned, admission is free and everyone is invited. — FRANCES LINDLEY, Sec.

The air conditioned Virginia Hotel in Monroe, La., will be the site of a coin show to be held September 8 and 9 by the Monroe Area Coin Club. Bourse tables at $25 each will be limited to twenty-five, with security guards on duty from 6 p.m. Friday until 5 p.m. Sunday. A fine show is promised and everyone is invited. — J. H. SHARP, Pres.

Seventy-one members and guests of North York (Ontario) Coin Club enjoyed a talk by William Lavell at the June 26 meeting. Lavell is a well known authority on paper money, and his talk was illustrated by some very rare items including a Hudsons Bay Company note and two Indian Chief medals. One of the medals, dated 1860, was counterstamped with the Prince of Wales feathers. At the suggestion of guest Frank Rose, Editor of Canadian Coin and Stamp World, we are looking into the possibility of holding a combined coin and stamp exhibition in Toronto. — MAY BUNNETT, Sec-Treas.

Mrs. Winifred Mather, FRNS, whose column in the Toronto Saturday Telegram is widely read, delighted members of the Toronto Coin Club with an address on collecting "Marriage Medals" at the June 23 meeting in the Royal York Hotel. Concisely but vividly she differentiated among the classes of these pieces. The largest class is those covering royal weddings, whether as medals or coins and whether contemporary or subsequently commemorative. Next are those struck for a silver or golden anniversary, and usually presented by the husband to wife in the precious metals with specimens of less valuable metal to friends and family. Finally, cities such as Besancon have honored citizens on their fiftieth wedding anniversary by conferring appropriately engraved medals. As the best guide on the subject,

Mrs. Mather cited the article in The Numismatist for February, 1959 by Alfred Hodes. The address was illustrated by the array of marriage medals that Mrs. Mather exhibited in Montreal last May, and that won top honors for her. Our President, Mrs. Louise Graham, tendered hearty congratulations to our Treasurer and Past President F. C. Jewett, FRNS, upon his appointment as Editor of the Canadian Numismatic Journal. Walter Holmes, FRNS, the Canadian Chairman of the joint CNA-ANA Detroit Convention, appealed for the most wholehearted support of the Canadian phase, adding that the American officers with whom he has been collaborating have been so courteous and helpful that he will be bitterly disappointed if the Canadian effort is not on a comparable basis. — H. A. CRAIG, Editor

In cooperation with neighboring clubs, the Red River Valley Coin Club will hold its first coin show, auction and banquet on September 8 and 9 at the F-M Hotel in Moorhead, Minn. Bourse Chairman John Koral, 2710 Broadway, Fargo, N.D., reports a few tables available at $15. Eugene Demko of Columbus, Neb., will conduct the floor and mail bid auction. The finest exhibits that have been seen in the area are being made ready and every effort is being made to assure that all who attend will have good reason to come back to the Fargo-Moorhead area for future shows. — BOB FROISNESS, Sec.

Known formerly as the New Jersey Numismatic Society, the Hackettstown Coin Club will hold a coin show on October 7 in the American Legion Home in Hackettstown, N. J. Bourse tables are still available from Leon Grant, 100 North Perry St., Dover, N. J. The bourse and exhibits will be open to the public from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. — LEON R. GRANT.

With about 140 present, the 260th meeting of Indianapolis Coin Club had a forward look in the announcement that the date of our twenty-third annual banquet is October 17, that the Club will sponsor a coin show November 10 and 11 in the Indiana State Teachers Auditorium, and that we will be host to the 1963 Indiana State Numismatic Association convention. Charles Alber, a teacher in Decatur Township Junior High School, presented a lecture with slides on his experiences in East Africa, where he was a missionary school teacher for four years. He attended a coin club meeting in Durban, East Africa, and presently sponsors a coin club within his school as an extra-curricular activity. African coins were featured in displays by Alber, Neil Certain, Fred Claffey, Max Keller, George Paxton, Percy Seall and Carl Simons. Program Chairman Max Keller presented a 1951 South African proof set to the speaker. — CLAUDE E. TYNDALL, Corr. Sec.

On September 15, the Newark Coin Club will be host to the fifth annual coin convention at the South Ward Boys Club, 400 Hawthorne, Newark, N. J. Due to the limited bourse space, applications are being accepted by invitation only. An auction will be conducted by Central New Jersey Coin & Supply Center, and all collectors are invited to place exhibits. — E. I. GREENSTONE, Chm.

The Lawndale (Calif.) Coin Club held its annual birthday party and coinarama on June 17, with ninety-six in attendance. Everyone enjoyed an excellent roast beef dinner. Among the guests, we were honored with the presence of President Snyder of the Los Angeles Coin Club, and Mrs. Snyder. Awards were given to the following for their displays: Best-in-show and first in U. S. coins went to Carl Quigley; first in U. S. paper money — Jack Protay; ancients and medieval, first — Joe Good-year; medals, first — Bob Axelrod; specialized collections, first — Carl Quigley; and in the novice class, first place went to Fern Caesar and second to Frank Mavis.

Eighty-three attended the July 15 meeting, at which Mel Fishel gave an enlightening talk on his collection of U. S. paper money and answered many questions for members. The charity auction netted $4.70 to bring the year's total to $65. A 1931-S cent in fine brought $33, and a set of circulated Mercury dimes, minus the 41/42, went for $70. We meet the third Sunday afternoons monthly in the Del Aire Improvement Assn. building at the corner of 119th Street and Aviation Blvd. in Inglewood. — JACK PROTAY, Corr. Sec.

Over a hundred persons attended the June meeting of Torrance (Calif.) Coin Club and enjoyed a talk by Kenneth Young on "Chinese Dollars." He covered the series from the oldest to the most modern issues. — MRS. VIRGINIA H. DENNIS, Corr. Sec.

The Newton (Kansas) Coin Club held its July 3 meeting at the YMCA with fifteen members present. During the business meeting, it was decided to hold the annual watermelon feed on August 31 in the shelter house in Military Park. After the auction, we viewed a collection of Mexican coins displayed by Charles and Mrs. Perry, who recently returned from a Mexican vacation trip. We will resume our regular schedule of bimonthly meetings the first Tuesday and last Friday monthly in September. — MRS. BOBBIE PHILLIPS, Publ. Chm.

In lieu of its regular monthly meeting, the Old Capitol Coin Club held its second annual picnic-auction at City Park, Iowa City, on July 12. Its members, composed of townspeople, University of Iowa faculty members and students, were provided with soft drinks, potato chips and ice cream and facilities for preparing their hot dogs and hamburgers. Professor William Grover, Club President, feels that the success of this affair insures its continuation as an annual event. The picnic also served as a farewell for the publicity chairman, a charter member who has accepted a professorship at California State Polytechnic College in Pomona. — TED N. WEISSBUCH, Publ. Chm.

The rain and a new meeting place failed to discourage the seventy-seven persons who attended the May meeting of Utah Numismatic Society. They found the American Oil Company lunchroom to be large, clean and comfortable, and especially convenient for those from the north. There is a sound system which will be used for future meetings. — C. E. CRANE, Editor, The Utah Mintmaster

The fifty-five who attended the June meeting of Victoria (Canada) Numismatic Society were treated to a talk by Lester Small on Israeli stamps and the coins illustrated on them. He brought out that Israel's first temporary stamps did not bear the country's name but instead the English equivalent of "Hebrew Post." The first stamps illustrated coins of Israel from Biblical times. In the auction, a 1932 half dollar in VG condition brought the surprisingly high price of $26. An 1872 half dollar in VF went for $36. — RONALD GREENE, Editor, Vintage and Mintage

Bourse space has been sold out in the fifth annual coinarama to be held October 20-21 in the El Cortez Hotel in San Diego, Calif. The original of all "coinaramas," it is sponsored by the San Diego County Inter-Club Numismatic Council. General Chairman Charles Jackson and his committee have planned a full two days of numismatic activities for all who attend. Outstanding exhibits from Southern California will compete for worthy awards, and over 1200 lots will be sold on a bid-board auction by licensed auctioneer Richard E. Martin. Additional information may be obtained from Charles Jackson, 541 Thorn St., Imperial Beach, Calif. — FRANCIS S. JONES, Publicity

The Mt. Vernon Numismatic Society will hold its fourth annual bourse and auction on September 30 at the Elk's Lodge in Mt. Vernon, Ohio. General Chairman is B. "Jack" Lahr, 209½ North Mulberry St., Mt. Vernon. — BARBARA V. MAXWELL, Corr. Sec.

Although one of the youngest clubs in New England, the Eagle Coin Club of New Haven is planning a show for October 27-28 with the intention of making it the best ever held in the area. Nearly half of the fifty bourse tables were reserved within the first week they were available. There will be an auction, and many fine exhibits are expected. Requests for bourse tables, at $25, and for other reservations and information may be addressed to the Secretary at 152 Grafton Street, New Haven, Conn. The show will be held in the Eagle's Hall in downtown New Haven, with plenty of parking space and hotels and restaurants nearby. — DOROTHY M. MARINO, Sec.

At its July meeting, the Wichita Coin Club voted to contribute $100 to the Lewis M. Reagan Memorial Foundation, Inc. Sixteen years ago, "Lew" as his host of friends knew him, helped organize the Club and became its first President on October 17, 1946. We are happy to have a part in perpetuating the ideals for which he stood and worked so hard. Six books were added to our library from the proceeds of the recent Lew Reagan auction. — BERT P. JONES, Second Vice Pres.

The San Angelo Coin Club will hold a coin show September 8-9 at the Town House Motor Hotel in San Angelo. Chairman is Hawley Green, 122 N. Poe St., San Angelo, Texas. — MRS. PETE BAKER, Sec.

The officials of Coast Counties Coin Carnival met recently and elected the following officers for the 1963 season: Chairman John Cobb, Co-Chairman George Dusio, Treasurer Glen Shake, Bourse Chairman Frank Rosa, Jr., Auction Chairman Denis N. Hooker, and Secretary Lillian Hooker. The 1963 convention has been set for May 31-June 2 at the Civic Auditorium in San Jose, Calif. The five participating clubs are Monterey Coin Club, Pajaro Valley Coin Club, Santa Cruz Coin Club, San Jose Coin Club and Discoverer Coin Club. Dealers may apply for bourse tables to Frank Rosa, Jr., 4041 El Camino Way, Palo Alto, Calif. — DENIS N. HOOKER

The Western Reserve Numismatic Club held its 489th meeting on July 11 at the Statler Hotel. Joseph Sawicki displayed Polish coins and medals, and ancient Greek coins. S. F. Rosenthal had a set of Kirkland, Ohio, bank notes issued by the Mormons and signed by Joseph Smith, and Joe Lukas had three 1797 English "cartwheel" coins. Dr. Sargis showed an ancient Syracusan coin and a California 50 cent gold piece, both with the word "Eureka" on them. A panel of former presidents, consisting of William Jacka, Clayton Gray, Matt Gaszo and Myron Sobotta, held a discussion on coin grading, with Chuck Seltham as moderator. — FRED N. HAHLEN, Sec.

The Kiowa Coin Club will hold a show October 6-7 in the V.F.W. Hall in Kiowa, Kans. An auction will be held Sunday afternoon. Bourse tables at $15 may be reserved by writing to Mrs. Opal Jones, Sec., 444 Campbell St., Kiowa.

Having reached the end of its first year, the Monrovia Coin Club held an election on June 11. Frank Strauss, who has acted as President since Dick Aster resigned three months ago, was elected President. Other officers are: Vice President Bennie Watkins, Treasurer Floyd Dill, Secretary Dorothy Brower, and Auctioneer Boyce Mountjoy. This Club, which was organized in February, 1961, under the leadership of Mountjoy, now has 133 members with an average attendance of 100 at meetings. Visitors are welcomed to meetings the second Monday evening at the Odd Fellows Hall, Ivy and Lime in Monrovia, Calif. — DOROTHY BROWER, Sec.

New officers of the White River Valley Stamp and Coin Club are: President C. W. Lounsberry, Vice President Clyde McGinnis, Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. Lowell Miller. Twenty-eight collectors, including four juniors, attended the July 19 meeting. President Lounsberry presented S. W. Freeman, Advertising Manager of The Numismatist, who talked briefly on coin collecting and answered many questions. A most interesting program is scheduled for the September meeting when member Freeman will exhibit his collection of Saint Gaudens medals. Our meetings are held the third Thursday monthly in City Hall, Batesville, Ark., and anyone interested in coin collecting is invited to attend. — MRS. LOWELL MILLER, Sec.-Treas.

The Starved Rock (Ill.) Coin Club held its July 19 meeting at the American Legion Hall in Peru. Plans were initiated for a coin show and auction early in December. — JANET PODOWICZ, Sec.

The Kiowa Coin Club will hold a coin show October 6 and 7, in the VFW Hall, Kiowa, Kans. For reservations write to Mrs. Opal Jones, 444 Campbell St., Kiowa. Auction Sunday afternoon. Bourse tables are $15.00.

In its thirty-fourth year, the Los Angeles Coin Club recently awarded its Honorary Life Membership to Richard P. "Dick" Goodson. In his ninth year of active numismatics, Dick received this honor in appreciation for his services to the Los Angeles Club and to the hobby in general in the Southern California area. He has served in four offices in this Club, as President of two others, and in numerous other capacities in these and other organizations. The N.A.S.C. Quarterly reported that he was a guest speaker at twenty-seven different clubs during 1961. Helpful to individuals as well as to organizations, probably few numismatists have accomplished as much for the good of their hobby in a lifetime as Dick has in less than a decade. His close friend and associate, Murray G. Singer, made the presentation.

At its July meeting, the Glendale Coin Club installed the following new officers: President, Edwin C. Borgolte; First Vice President, Dan Suhrie; Second Vice President, Milton Doctor; Secretary, Mrs. C. R. Young; Asst. Secretary, Mrs. J. G. Hamilton; Treasurer, C. H. Thompson; Asst. Treasurer, Clay Read. Retiring President C. R. Young was presented a plaque in recognition of his outstanding services to the Club. Guest speaker J. A. Schultz, President of "Voice of Prophecy," gave an informative lecture on China and Chinese currency. Having lived in China for many years, the speaker has an intimate knowledge of his subject and speaks Chinese as fluently as he does English. Our meetings are held the third Monday monthly at the Tuesday Afternoon Womens Club in Glendale, Calif., and are open to anyone interested in collecting numismatic items. — MRS. J. G. HAMILTON, Asst. Sec.

The Western Pennsylvania Numismatic Society met in the Carnegie Museum Library July 3, Richard Foley presided. A paper entitled "The United States Large Cent" by Richard Yeager was read. Exhibits: Glenn Mooney - U. S. large cents; Harry Bartley - 12 tokens used on remaining trolley, subway and elevated car lines in U. S.; medal commemorating opening of movie "Music Man" in Mason City, Iowa, 20 communion tokens, Chinese jeton, Russian gambling token; Jack Burns - Cuban commemorative medal for Bay of Pigs; Gordon Dodrill - 24 early type coins of U.S.A.; Duane Feisel - uncirculated gold type $5; Richard Foley - Sommer Islands, Dickeson restrike mule Evans & Watson in white metal and copper nickel, brass also regular, Wuesthoff restrikes in silver, trans-Mississippi Exposition in silver and gilt proof, Japanese money tree; Charles Gratz - 1¢ 1872 proof, 1¢ 1909-S VDB BU, 2¢ 1867 proof, 20¢ 1878 proof, 25¢ Isabella BU, 50¢ Spanish Trail BU, 50¢ 1895 Proof, $1 Lafayette BU, 1936 proof set; Robert S. Porter, Jr. - fake coins. - DR. R. J. HUDSON, Sec.-Treas.

The Klamath Falls Coin and Stamp Club will be host to the Southern Oregon Numismatic Association coin show on September 21-23 in the Winema Hotel, in downtown Klamath Falls. Lee Noonchester, President of S.O.N.A., is working with the members of this Club and, with the active cooperation of other affiliated clubs, looks to a good show. Bourse Chairman is Melvin Carmichael, 4041 Delaware Ave., Klamath Falls, Ore.; and other communications may be sent to Secretary Ivan Larson, 3926 Clinton Ave. Hotel reservations should be made with the Winema Hotel, 1111 Main St. This will be the first coin show in the area and many collectors who do not often attend shows are expected from Southern Oregon, Northern California, Idaho and Nevada. Those attending will find such attractions as Crater Lake and the Lava Beds National Monument nearby, and Link River, believed to be the shortest river in the world, which joins Upper

Klamath Lake and Ewauna Lake, less than a quarter of a mile apart. - MELVIN CARMICHAEL

The July 18 meeting of Panhandle Coin Club was held in the Chadron City Hall and was devoted largely to discussion of plans for the N.N.A. convention which will be held here next April. The Club, as host to the convention, plans to issue the first state convention medal ever to be struck. - TED KADLECEK, JR., Reporter

The Janesville and Beloit Coin Clubs will hold their fourth annual joint convention and show on October 27 and 28 in the beautiful and spacious Arrow Park Cafeteria Building of the Parker Pen Company in Janesville, Wisc. There will be an excellent variety of exhibits with awards in several classes, a limited bourse section, and a Sunday afternoon auction. There is ample free parking space and food is available at all times. Inquiries should be sent promptly to the general chairman, 831 Harding St., Janesville, Wisc. - LYLE L. THOMAS, Gen. Chm.

Meeting in the McCurdy Hotel during the hot months instead of in the Museum of Arts and Sciences, the Evansville Coin Club devoted its July meeting entirely to an auction conducted by Sterling Harrison and Johnny Groeninger. Dealer Darwin France announced the opening of his new store at 204 S. Kentucky Avenue in August. Our annual coin show is scheduled for the last weekend in October. - BETTYE J. KLAUSS, Sec.

The Mississippi Numismatic Association has set March 16 and 17 as the date for its second annual convention, to be held at the Heidelberg Hotel in Jackson. The General Chairman is Byron W. Cook, Box 181, Jackson, Miss. - DANIEL T. ANDERSON, Vice Pres.

The Fantastic 1804 Dollar

by

Eric P. Newman and Kenneth E. Bressett

An exhaustive study of the 1804 dollar is now presented for the first time in this unique book. Every piece of information ever recorded about the "king of American coins" is cited, discussed and analyzed in this truly fantastic story.

In a very enjoyable style the authors try, not to implant their opinions, but to present all known facts and startling new discoveries, outline modern methods of numismatic investigation, and allow the reader to draw his own conclusions.

This thoroughly illustrated book has an attractive library binding with 144 pages printed on highest quality paper.

America's Leading Coin Auctioneers (244 Sales)

EXPANDED FACILITIES

Our offices now include rooms 400 through 412. Same building since 1936 — just keep adding facilities as we need them. We can't think of a better way to celebrate than to buy more coins, currency, documents, Americana and "junk" of a fiscal nature for the KAGIN REFERENCE COLLECTIONS. Yes, we are still collecting everything of a fiscal nature which tells the story of the development of what is today the USA. Included are TERRITORIAL CURRENCY, documents, notes, tokens, BAR MONEY OF THE WEST (various metals) U. S. COINS, COLONIAL COINS and NOTES, PIONEER and TERRITORIAL GOLD, etc. We note some of these are now included in the Guidebook (MANY ARE UNIQUE).

Because we are collectors and dealers, we are prepared to "reach" for the items for our different collections of coins, paper, tokens, etc. We believe we understand and appreciate true rarity and superlative condition. We have collected since 1928 and dealt since 1933. We know what we want when we see it (ask the great number of dealers who have sold us the many "rare and unusual" items) and are prepared to pay a top price (yes, even a "FABULOUS PRICE" — Remember the 1953 Texas convention when they started calling us the "Fabulous Kagins"?). Perhaps they then had their "tongue in cheek" when using this cognomen but we have tried to live up to this name by having available about 95% of the currency listed in Paper Money of the U. S. and about 95% of the coins listed in the Guidebook.

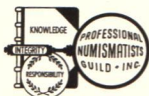

HOW DO WE MAINTAIN OUR STOCK?

By constantly buying. If we published a list of the collections we have purchased over the years, it would read like a "Who's Who In Numismatics." However, it has been our policy not to "sell names" but "sell coins." We believe the majority of collectors wish to keep the disposal of their collection private. This has become a fetish with us, and whether you are buying or selling to us, we shall continue to keep our transactions in the nature of a trust such as exists between a doctor and his patient. We believe you, the collector, are the most capable person to dispose of your collection. After all, you collected it and know more about its value than if its disposal were turned over to some less informed person, voluntarily or involuntarily. May we be of service when it comes time to think of the disposal of your coins, notes or numismatic material?

We can arrange to inspect (and buy) your collection anywhere in the U. S. If necessary, we can be virtually anywhere within 24 hours by air.

PUBLIC AUCTION SALE CATALOGUE Part One United States Gold Coins

October 12th & 13th, 1962

GOLD DOLLARS: Complete! Many of the scarcer mintmarks are exceptionally choice and nearly all of the Philadelphia mint coins are PROOFS.

QUARTER EAGLES: Nearly complete. This is the first extensive offering in many years of one of the most popular and sought after series. It contains virtually every date and variety struck from 1796 thru 1834. In the Liberty Head series — it features a SUPERB 1841; and numerous choice Proofs. It highlights the 1848 "CAL," 1854 "S," 1856 "D," 1863, 1864, 1865, latter three in Proof and many other rare and scarce coins in top condition.

THREE DOLLAR GOLD: Absolutely COMPLETE! Featuring the 1875 and 1876; it highlights the fact that nearly THIRTY of these coins are GEM BRILLIANT PROOFS.

FIVE DOLLAR SERIES: Magnificent! Fifty coins in the early series prior to 1834. Spotlighting the 1819, 1821, 1824, 1825, 1827, 1828/7, 1828 etc. The highlight of the series is the EXTREMELY RARE 1854 "S" — one of the few known specimens. Extraordinary condition in the sought-after Charlotte and Dahlonga mints. All of the rare Philadelphia mint coins in the 1860-1878 period are offered — nearly all of which are in BRILLIANT PROOF condition. The scarce dates, mintmarks and varieties are almost complete in the finest condition possibly available.

TEN DOLLAR SERIES: EXTRAORDINARY! Complete with all varieties from 1795 thru 1804 featuring the 1798 over '97 with stars 7 x 6 — one of the few known specimens. The Liberty and Indian Head series are complete in all dates and mints, except for the 1875 and 1876. The general overall condition of the coins contained in this series is exceptional.

TWENTY DOLLAR SERIES: Virtually Complete! Lacking only the 1854 "O," 1856 "O" and 1927 "D" to be absolutely complete. Featuring BRILLIANT PROOFS of 1859, 1860, 1861, 1862, 1863, 1870, 1872, 1874, 1879, 1881, 1882, 1883, 1884, etc. The average condition of the coins contained in this series is particularly outstanding, especially the difficult "O" and "CC" mint coins.

COMMEMORATIVE GOLD: Absolutely complete including a gem Panama-Pacific set.

EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM

Empire Coin Company, Inc., proudly announces the new EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM. During past years funds invested wisely in selected rare coins have been an excellent investment. We, as one of the nation's largest numismatic firms, have been called on again and again by numismatists desirous of profitably investing in coins. We are pleased to report that all of the investment programs we have managed in past years have shown substantial gains . . . gains considerably higher than those shown by the coin market as a whole.

In response to a number of requests we have initiated the EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM. It works as follows:

You select the investment payment (minimum $100.00 per payment) you wish to make on a weekly, monthly, quarterly or other basis. When your payment is received we select for you, using our best professional judgment, coins which we believe will be an excellent investment in years to come. Coins selected will be, for the most part, Uncirculated and Proof coins dated prior to 1940. No funds will be invested in recent rolls, Proof sets, medals and similar items subject to tight market control and erratic price fluctuation. Coins selected by us will be promptly shipped to you postpaid for your inspection and safekeeping. When the time comes to sell your coins you will select the method of sale, the selling price and to whom they are sold.

What are the advantages for YOU? Advantages of the EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM to you are as follows: (1) You receive the benefit of our extensive experience with the rare coin market and rare coin business . . . an experience of handling choice coins that few other professional numismatists can match. You get the free benefit of the investment advice that has made a number of investors in the past invest $10,000.00 per year and upward with us . . . usually increasing the amount invested each year as they have seen the results of the preceding years. (2) You receive "first chance" on rare coins and collections as they are purchased by us. In past years these collections have been many of the finest to come on the market. Items for your purchase consideration are selected from approximately $500,000.00 worth of coins in our stock plus various consignments received. (3) Items purchased are sent subject to your satisfaction. You incur no obligation when you start the EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM . . . you may discontinue it at any time.

What are the advantages for Empire? Advantages of the EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM to us are as follows: (1) We will make a profit (usually less than normal on Unc. and Proof coins) when the coins are purchased by you. (2) We hope that you will consider selling to Empire when you liquidate your investment . . . thus providing us with inventory in future years. (3) Certain coins may be sent directly to investors without being advertised or displayed . . . thus effecting a saving for us.

The Empire EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM differs from other plans and other investment companies as follows:

You personally will inspect the quality and condition of each coin to be sure that it meets your specifications. You will have the full details on every transaction. Coins will be in your possession so that you will be able to sell them on a moment's notice, if you so desire. You know that your investment will be secure.

The value of a share in a stock-issuing company will not usually be worth more than the actual value of the coins purchased and might be worth less, depending on the stockholders' faith in the knowledge of the management. Stock is often difficult to sell, particularly if a number of investors wish to sell at the same time. You, as a minority stockholder, exercise little control over the coins purchased in a stock-issuing company. One stock-issuing coin investment company recently offered to pay us more than our advertised retail prices for coins if we would accept stock certificates in exchange. What kind of protection is this for the stockholder who pays the full issue stock price in cash? In summation, you will avoid these possible abuses by investing in the Empire EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM.

In handling your EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM account we will have at our disposal one of the largest full-time staffs in the field of professional numismatics — now numbering fifteen persons. Our knowledge and market research facilities combined with our large volume of business enables us to keep up-to-the-minute on coin price and popularity information. As members of the leading professional organizations you may be assured of our reputation and reliability. We will do our best for you.

Your first payment will open your EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PROGRAM account. Your satisfaction is guaranteed with the quality of all coins purchased. Should you wish further information before investing we have prepared a brochure on the Empire EXECUTIVE INVESTMENT PLAN which will be sent to you on request.

A detailed catalogue of all Spanish and Spanish Colonial Onzas, or gold pieces of eight. Lists types and dates and initials of assayers.

Written in English and Spanish with dollar valuations.

1,000 numbered copies. Printed, on rich, large octavo paper with gold-colored photos of many coins.

Introduction and bibliography in English.

Highly recommended to collectors of gold coins in general, and especially to students of American numismatics because the onza was legal tender in America until 1857.

70% CASH ADVANCE

THAT'S RIGHT ! ! ! We will advance 70% of the fair retail value of your collection immediately upon receipt. We will then sell your collection at one of our forthcoming auction sales and you will receive your final settlement within 30 days after the sale. Our commission rates are always reasonable.

During the time that your coins are in our possession they are stored in our protected and insured vaults. When you receive your advance check, if for any reason you are not satisfied with the amount of the check, just return it and your coins will be returned postpaid.

In many cases our advance will be almost equal to others offer of outright purchase.

If you are not currently on our mailing list, just drop us a post-card with your full name and address and we will place your name on our catalogue mailing list.

REMEMBER — It is not too late to have your collection included in our next outstanding auction sale.

OUR SALES ARE USUALLY HELD IN THE PARKER HOUSE

We are always in need of desirable numismatic material and will be happy to travel anywhere in the world to acquire it — either for auction or for outright purchase provided the value of the material warrants it.

NO COLLECTION IS TOO LARGE — We will furnish bank references upon request.

COIN MEDALS . . .

The Magnificent Medals of Real Numismatic Interest

A series of beautifully sculptured, numismatically designed medals commemorating famous coin designers. The Augustus Saint-Gaudens and Victor D. Brenner medals, the first two in the COIN MEDALS series, are now ready for immediate shipment, and the Charles E. Barber medal will be ready in June.

COIN MEDALS are sculptured in very high relief on both obverse and reverse by master artist Robert Schabel, and quality struck by The Metal Arts Company of Rochester, New York. The obverse of every COIN MEDAL depicts the finest medallion work of the artist being commemorated, and the reverse, as shown above, symbolizes his work in coins.

COIN MEDALS are issued in bronze, and in a serially numbered pure silver issue not to exceed 5000. Each medal is three inches in diameter, and weigh close to a half-pound in silver, so they are not to be confused with ordinary coin size medals.

PRICES OF COIN MEDALS

The Augustus Saint-Gaudens Medal: Bronze, $5.50, or2 for $10.00
in serially numbered pure silver, in velvet lined case$35.00

The Victor D. Brenner Medal: Bronze $5.50, or2 for $10.00
in serially numbered pure silver, in velvet lined case$30.00

Each medal is accompanied by descriptive folder.

SPECIAL, above two medals in silver with SAME SERIAL NO. ..$62.50

PLASTIC HOLDER AS ILLUSTRATED is $7.00. Other holders; single holder, for medal only $4.00; double holder, shows obverse and reverse of medal, $7.00

Buyers of the Saint-Gaudens medal are assured they can obtain all future medals with the SAME SERIAL NUMBER for a more-valuable matched set, at the issue price of $30.00. You need send only a $10.00 payment now, your order will be acknowledged with your RESERVED SERIAL NUMBER, then pay $10.00 or more a month and each medal beginning with the Saint-Gaudens will be shipped as soon as paid.

We are still buying and selling coins, Half Cents to Gold, Paper Money, Commemorative Half Dollars, etc. For the best prices buying or selling, write us.

CHEMICAL MAGIC

"CCC" HAS A PARTNER

Our "CCC" has no equal for cleaning coins. It has been used for many years by thousands of collectors and dealers, and is established as a numismatic accessory of merit.

EASY TO USE
CLEANS IN SECONDS
ECONOMICAL

By mail — a 3-oz. bottle, postpaid in the U. S. or Canada, $1.00.

This new product is a fitting partner for "CCC." Our "CCD" will restore the color of age to copper coins which have been cleaned. It seems like magic when this clear white liquid darkens the coins. Simple to use. Just soak the coins until you have attained the shade of color desired.

By mail — a 4-oz. bottle, postpaid in the U. S. or Canada, $1.00.

ATTENTION DEALERS — "CCC" is stocked by many jobbers, and "CCD" soon will be. If not readily available from your jobber you may send us $4.00 for six 4-oz. bottles of either "CCC" or "CCD," postpaid. Six-packs not assorted. Or you may order 1 dozen 4-oz. bottles of either, or assorted, for $7.75 postpaid, or 2 dozen for $15.00 postpaid.

ATTENTION JOBBERS — You are overlooking a bet if you are not handling these fast-selling, nationally advertised numismatic accessories. Please inquire (on your letterhead).

CAPITAL COIN HOLDER

CAPITAL holders are truly the ultimate in coin display. You are justly proud of your coins, and you will be more than delighted when you see them housed in CAPITAL display holders. They are economical too, providing a most luxurious setting for your favorite sets at the lowest cost consistent with highest quality.

ALL CAPITAL holders are made of Plexiglas, the lifetime plastic which will never fade or discolor. Each holder is made of three pieces of Plexiglas, the outer pieces being transparent, and the center piece in beautiful blue, red, or green transparent, jet black or milk white. All holders are titled in gold.

The coin openings are tapered and carefully sized to insure accurate fit of coins. Each holder is assembled with a generous quantity of plastic screws. The Proof Set holder is held with 6 screws.

Large stocks of holders are carried to insure speedy delivery, but some colors are occasionally out of stock. If alternate colors are given, you can be assured of quick delivery. All holders are match marked at the edge for ease of re-assembly.

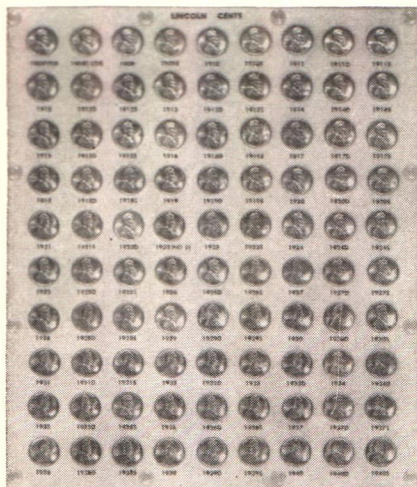

ALL CAPITAL PRODUCTS ARE UNCONDITIONALLY GUARANTEED.

Proof Set Holder No. 11

Dated or Plain. Your Choice of Colors

Price $1.75, postpaid

CAPITAL PLASTICS, INC., now offers you genuine three-piece Plexiglas holders for series of coins, types, gold and other sets, with each opening fully described—this new series to be known as PAO holders (printed at openings).

And listen to this, these high quality PAO holders are offered at prices you would expect to pay for conventional holders. Construction, quality, attention to detail—and prompt shipment—have become bywords with CAPITAL, and you will find that our new line of PAO holders is no exception to the rule.

The following holders are now in stock in BLACK OR WHITE, for immediate delivery. NO special arrangements of dates or titles are available. Dates, varieties and descriptions are as listed in the 15th edition of the Red Book.

COIN GALLERIES PUBLIC AUCTION

November 9-10, 1962 has finally been chosen for Coin Galleries Fall Public Auction. We believe this Sale will be one of the major Numismatic Events of the season. The main feature of this Sale will be a Superb Collection of Polish Gold Coins of the 16th, 17th and 18th Centuries in all denominations. The rarity of these coins is equaled by the unusual condition of almost every piece. In addition there is a Collection of Gold Coins of the Netherlands, 1795-1933, that includes almost all the rarities in the series. Finally the consignment of Swedish Silver Coins is without doubt the best we have encountered in several years. It is studded with early large pieces and many rarities.

This Sale will be a Banner Numismatic occasion. Catalogues will be sent to all our regular subscribers. If you are not on our mailing list and are interested, be sure to let us know.

Our next list was going to be on paper money — however was not able to get the 2 collections I was promised, so our next list will be on coins. Should be out sometime in September. If not on our list you can get one free for the asking. This list will contain some Canadian and Newfoundland items. It will pay you to get this list as it will contain many nice items at our usual reasonable prices.

FOREIGN COINS

An interesting and pleasantly unpredictable range of foreign coins passes through my periodic fixed price lists.

Any good foreign material is grist for my mill. I take pride in sober and responsible cataloguing.

Let me know if some foreign series interests you. And let me have some idea of whatever good coins you might be disposed to sell.

In either case there's an excellent chance we'll both benefit.

NIC-A-LENE CLEANS:

NICKELS: Buffalo, Shield, Liberty and Jefferson.

COPPER COINS: Large cents, Copper nickels, Flying Eagles, Indian, Lincoln and all copper, brass and bronze coins including Civil War cents.

SILVER: Nic-A-Lene will do a nice job on most silver coins, however, it works much more slowly.

STEEL CENTS: Nic-A-Lene will not satisfactorily clean steel cents. When used with copper brush will copper plate steel cents.

ROBERT E. LEE MEDALS

FOUND in a forgotten storage place in the basement of Confederate Memorial Hall, these medals were issued in 1884 as a souvenir of the unveiling of the Lee Circle monument in New Orleans. Of white metal, they are nearly 2 inches in diameter. Uncirculated, some of them are toned and pitted because of improper wrapping and storage.

GREAT AMERICAN GENERALS MEDALS

© WAHL CO., 1962

First in series honoring outstanding military leaders, the GRANT and LEE medals are popular 32mm (1 1/4") size, bear beautifully executed high relief portraits on obverse, biographical data on reverse. Each medal comes in attractive permanent display case of rigid plastic.

BRONZE MEDAL $2.00
SILVER (.999) MEDAL — limited to 1,000 serially-numbered pieces, $10.00.

WAHL CO., N-14, Bogota, N. J.

POSITIVE THINKING!

If you are depressed by your losses (paper or otherwise) in the stock market, perhaps you should decide to devote more time to your hobby. Most of us still have our jobs, our health, our families, and shouldn't have been in the market anyway!

I am not urging that you buy coins to compete with the stock market, but merely that you relax and enjoy yourself. If you spend money on coins, you might make a profit or take a loss, but at least you will be having some fun along the line.

If you collect foreign coins, my price lists will get you off to a good start. I have new and recent issues, older issues, odd and curious, crowns, minor, holders for sets, etc. There is no charge and a postal card will do.
